OUR 74TH YEAR, NO. 13 — March 31, 1988

From parking to planning

Council candidates debate the issues at forum

By NANCY HILLS

CARMEL CITY Council candidates got another chance to exchange views and debate their philosophies on a wide variety of issues at a public forum sponsored by The Carmel Pine Cone March 28 at the Carmel Woman's Club.

All seven council candidates were present to answer questions posed by a panel consisting of Carmel Pine Cone editor Mac McDonald, Carmel Pine Cone reporter David Leland and KSBW-8 reporter John Lobertini. Ann O'Neill of the San Jose Mercury News was scheduled to be a panelist, but was unable to in order to cover the story of troops returning to Fort Ord from Honduras.

The program was moderated by news anchor George Reading of KMST-46.

The candidates present were incumbent James Wright, planning commissioners Ken White, Howard Nieman and Carla Ramsey, Harrison Memorial Library trustee John Kennedy; artist/gallery owner James Ogle; and attorney David Larkin.

A mayor's forum is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., April 4 at the Carmel Woman's Club.

Leland led off the questioning by asking incumbent James Wright about some of the issues in which he cast the dissenting vote in the past and if any of those council decisions would come back to "haunt" Carmel.

Wright explained that he had different reasons for objecting to each item and did not believe in bringing up the past decisions in future councils.

"I don't know if any of these (decisions) individually will come back to haunt us. It's been put to rest, I don't see — as the present administration did — bringing up decisions made in the past for reconsideration and just have ping-pong effect as the administration changes.

"Collectively, if this policy of interpreting the ordinances and interpreting the general plan in such a way to favor certain individuals and not others, if that were to persist it would have a damaging effect on the community," Wright said.

A proposed Sunset Center parking garage and parking problems in general remained on the top of the list as an issue for the candidates.

White stated "I'm in favor of the city maintaining control of costruction of the garage based on information received from people who are in that business in other cities."

For instance, he said, two people in Monterey had told him that if the city does not maintain control, then "We're being taken."

Larkin suggested that the city needed to look into Carmel's liability and make sure the financial responsibilty does not fall on the city.

Ogle opposed the garage, calling it a "ridiculous structure" and said other alternatives should be explored.

THE PROPOSED joint Pine Inn/city-owned garage at the corner of Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue also became a point of debate — particularly between Wright and Howard Nieman Jr. Wright had opposed the garage, while Nieman had voted for the concept at a planning commission meeting.

Wright said that Nieman had opposed the garage prior to getting on the commission, to which Nieman responded that "it was a good case study of the problems the city faces and why we have failed in many cases to make a decision."

Nieman said that the Pine Inn lot is already used for parking as is the city portion "and the one thing we all agree on is that we have a parking problem in the city. When you have a problem we really should try to find a solution.

"That location is probably one of the most innocuous in the city," he said.

The Pine Inn garage was raised as a response to a question to Nieman from McDonald about whether he had a "turnabout" in his position or outlook since being nominated to the commission by Mayor Clint Eastwood. Prior to that nomination, Nieman had been a founder and chairman of the Carmel Residents Association.

Nieman said he believed that his voting record proved that he remained consistent with the views he expressed before his appointment. He "sometimes agrees and sometimes disagrees" with Eastwood's positions, he said.

The CRA, he added, had become more political than when he was chairman "and that is fine" if that is what they want.

Both Nieman and Carla Ramsey responded to question asked jointly of them about the city exploring renovation of Sunset Center theater now that the proposed Stanton Theater was found not in compliance with the general plan.

"I opposed the size of the Stanton Theater to be built because I thought the impact on the residential neighborhood would not be beneficial. I don't believe I have ever opposed renovating the existing theater," Ramsey said.

Nieman admitted that not building a larger theater it was possible for the city to lose some of its cultural attractions and even renovation would not stop that. The planning commission, he added, received widespread opposition to the proposed Stanton Theater.

White responded that he voted in favor of finding a new theater in complaince with the general plan based on its dictates to promote Carmel's cultural atmosphere. He added he felt that the city should remodel the current Sunset Center.

Cultural events, White said, encourage "quality visitors," which the city needs.

Wright pointed out that the city does not currently have the funds to remodel the existing theater and the Friends of Sunset Center were unwilling to furnish the money.

Kennedy maintained changing the Carmel resident parking sticker program to allow parking all day in any zone. That way, he said, residents could come downtown and have the time to shop in resident-oriented businesses.

"We have to set our priorities in town," he said.

Ramsey advocated a parking program that would allow only residents and their guests to park in the residential area. That would be in conjunction with the Sunset Center parking garage.

"People are fed up with looking out on line after line of sheet metal in front of their homes," she said.

THE SEVEN Carmel City Council candidates met March 28 to answer questions from local media representatives in a forum sponsored by the Carmel Pine Cone. The media panel (seated on stage left), consisted of Carmel Pine Cone reporter David Leland, KSBW-8 reporter John Lobertini, and Pine Cone managing editor Mac McDonald. KMST-46 news anchor George Reading (standing, center), moderated the event. (Chuck Scardina photo.)

THE CANDIDATES were split on the what the city council should use as a basis for overturning planning commission decisions.

White and Kennedy both said that as an elected body, the council has a somewhat different task than the commission. The council could vote on the wishes of the people rather than on strictly questions of law.

Wright and Nieman maintained that the council should only overrule the commission when the commission has been found to err in facts or interpretation of the law — not on some political philosophy.

Ramsey believed that councilmembers should attend and be familar with the reasons for the planning commission's decisions and process.

"What we've seen is an upsurge in appeals not because the planning commission made a mistake, but because people feel the council is more disposed in overlooking ordinances," Wright said.

Kennedy responded by stating that the military has civilian controls over it, which is akin to the council's control over the commission. The commission, he said, must rule only on the basis of law.

Nieman said in his opinion, "What has happened has been frequently that applicants have used the appeal process to circumvent the ordinances that are on the books. I don't think that is good for the community.

"I think it is extremely important that if we have ordinances on the books that they be enforced fairly and frequently for everyone. If the ordinance is not a good one it should be discussed and changed.

"When applicants come forward with a completely new or amended application and the council acts on that application in 35 or 40 minutes after the planning commission has spent five to 10 hours on some of the more substantial projects, in my mind the best interests of the citizens and city have not been met," he said.

Ogle said the planning commission "needs to be more flexible" and that he had been turned down by them in the past.

Larkin suggested that the appeals process itself may need an overhaul.

Retaining the city's open space and parkland was also endorsed by every candidate.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters are not accepted.

(Editor's Note: Because of the large volume of mail we have received in the past weeks concerning the upcoming election, we must ask writers to try to limit their letters to one, double-spaced, typewritten page. Please try to limit discussions to issues, not personalities, and try not to repeat information already presented. From now until election time only one letter per person will be published. Letters must be received by Monday noon at the latest to be published in that week's issue.)

No dereliction

Dear Editor:

Unfortunately, it appears, Mayor Clint Eastwood was given faulty information about Ken White, chairman of the planning commission. In his Mayor's Report last week, Mr. Eastwood stated that Mr. White "religiously leaves town for three months every summer and misses ensuing meetings."

As I am supporting Mr. White's candidacy for the city council, this reported dereliction of duty disturbed me. I immediately checked with Mr. White. This is what I learned. Each summer for the six weeks of the Bach Festival, the White home is occupied by festival musicians while the White family vacations in the mountains.

Before he leaves, Mr. White told me, he has cleared his absence with the city planning director and has promised to return to Carmel if his attendance at any planning commission meeting is deemed imperative.

The above information given to me by Mr. White, I consider, completely refutes the statement about his absence contained in the March 17 Mayor's Report.

Jewel in the crown?

Dear Editor:

I attended the candidates' meeting last week and I enjoyed them very much, especially the bike man and the T-shirt man...er...Mr. Whatsisname.

However I was quite nonplussed to hear Mrs. Grace's responses. When asked how she could find the time to be effective as mayor since she has a full-time career. Her reply was that the mayors of other peninsula cities also had full-time jobs and implied that it is no big deal...that the office of mayor of Carmel was purely an advisory one anyway, and that we had a very capable administrator who did an excellent job.

It seems to me that Mrs. Grace collects committees and chairmanships like other people collect art, trophies and teddy bears. Would winning the mayoral race be just another jewel in her crown?

Oh well, if she is elected maybe she could hire Sue Hutchinson to do the job for her, it is no big deal.

Now Mrs. Grace seems like a nice lady, good looking too, but we have a rich vein of untapped talent here, this is a retirement community, Seaside, Monterey and Del Rey Oaks are not.

This letter did not start out as an endorsement for Clayton Anderson, I was principally bothered by Mrs. Grace's responses, however, I believe Clayton has the time, talent and enthusiasm that we need in our town, and the fact that he has only been a resident of Carmel for four years I believe is indeed a plus. There are a lot of negative attitudes here and as I observe Clayton-he has none at all, his refreshing positive approach is what I think we need right now.

With a retired mayor, he would be likely to make a part-time job into a full-time job. Hey, we shouldn't pass up a bargain like that should we?

No-dam candidates

Dear Editor:

It is ironic to read that Messrs. Wright and Anderson have been endorsed and cited as "pro-environmental" by an organization and person who are formerly opposed to the means of restoring and preserving the lower Carmel River and its dying steelhead run.

Over the signature of Dale Hekuis, the Sierra Club has filed a formal protest letter with the State Water Resources Control Board against a dam on the Carmel River, the only instrument which could accomplish the goals of true conservationalists.

Mr. Wright is the last politically surviving member of the previous Carmel City Council, which refused to pass a resolution allowing Carmel citizens to vote for or against a dam. Wright's anti-dam views are no secret. That counsel also refused to fight for a fair allocation of water for residents and businesses in Carmel.

Mr. Wright's running mate, Clayton Anderson, at the farcial "Mayors' Forum" evaded a direct answer to the question of whether the recent allocation to Carmel was fair. If he, Wright, and one other like-minded person are elected will we be returned to the no-dam, too-little-water stance of the Townsend council?

There are other candidates, highly qualified by local experience, who can more honestly claim their concern about the local environment and who have lived here long enough to know what the environmental issues really are and how they should be addressed.

All council and mayoral candidates should forthrightly state whether they are for or against a fair and equitable allocation of district water to Carmel!

A 'people' mayor

Dear Editor:

Make no mistake in our choice of a new mayor. We erred in last year's water board election. That board just voted to spend $665,000 of tax money for water conservation in every household. But the water saved will go for new developments — and more traffic. Things are backward.

Pro-growth members such as Davis and Hughes now dominate the water board. I understand they brought in an outside political expert from Texas to get elected.

A candidate for mayor, Jean Grace, is backed by the same people as Davis and Hughes. Why repeat the same mistake in our next vote? Grace has wavered back and forth on growth and traffic as a member of Carmel's General Plan Committee. She supported pro-growth policies in the plan. Nice campaign words are not good enough. She has no management or policy-making experience. Moreover, as a full-time government employee, she would be a "weekend mayor." That, too, is backward. The city staff cannot make policy. We should return to a mayor people can get to know and talk with during normal hours about a big bundle of business and neighborhood problems.

Because of these handicaps, the Grace campaign is off to a bad start. It undermines and badmouths her opponent, Clayton Anderson, with scurrilous rumors. Who is her expert on negative campaigns? Why bad taste in Carmel?

Clayton Anderson has background and excellence. He has wide-ranging experience in policy management and budgets for major programs. He likes people, is easy to talk with and has a fine wit. No wonder he was

MAYOR'S REPORT

By Clint Eastwood

Outrageousness of it all

OVER TWO years ago, when I was running for mayor, some citizens of our community were influenced to sign their name to a paper insinuating that I would advocate building a large hotel on the beach at the foot of Ocean Avenue.

This was sort of a desperation tactic as this hotel had not been proposed since 1924 when it was then stopped by the artists in our community. I guess outrageous insinuations happen in every situation.

LIFE'S A HOLIDAY

I was not shocked several weeks ago when the chairman of the Carmel Residents Association wrote a letter to the Pine Cone insinuating that Mrs. Ramsey, Mrs. Grace and Howard Nieman, Jr. were all backed by an expensive professional campaign. I wasn't shocked because this had been a normal behavior of the chairman over the last two years. I did find it commendable though that he chose to apologize to Mrs. Ramsey and Mr. Nieman in a letter in last week's Pine Cone. Two out of three ain't bad.

I was shocked at their organization's handling of Howard Nieman, Jr. one of Carmel Residents Association's founders and the first chairman. Howard had written many thoughtful articles for their publication. His intentions were to participate in an issue-minded organization instead of a politically polarized one. Howard has always had high praise for its membership and deserved better treatment. (How soon we forget!)

Mayors' conclusion

LIKE MY colleagues, former Carmel mayors Bernard Anderson, Herb Blanks, and Eben Whittlesey, I have given considerable thought to the issues and candidates for the office of mayor. I agree with their conclusion that Clayton Anderson is the best choice.

I have never before made a public statement on a candidate during a political campaign but I think it is important that Clayton Anderson be elected mayor so that we can experience the harmony and positive leadership that is needed in Carmel.

Here are some of the reasons why I like Clayton and identify with him:

- He has a proven record of working with and listening to local residents — I admire that.
- He cares deeply about Carmel's environment and he knows how to protect it — I agree with the Sierra Club's endorsement of Clayton.
- He wants full and open public discussions to clarify the issues before the city council — I agree with this.
- He knows that residents and merchants must work together to prevent overcommercialization — I agree.
- He has respect for Carmel's excellent professional staff and so have I.
- He was a planning commissioner in Springfield, Ore. and I respect that kind of experience for Carmel.
- He served as a mountain soldier and went forward with the attacking troops. That took courage.
- He resisted a Washington state governor's attempt to politicize the state parks and recreation department — that took courage too.

Please join me, Bernard Anderson, Herb Blanks and Eben Whittlesey in voting for Clayton Anderson on April 12.

Caltrans won't budge on Hatton Freeway

By DAVID LELAND

UNLESS THERE is an 11th-hour change of heart, Caltrans officials say they are through re-engineering the proposed $25 million Hatton Canyon Freeway project. In other words, if the road is built, there will be an elevated freeway at the intersection of Rio Road and Highway 1.

'The big thing is there's got to be a better way than this. We didn't come here (Carmel) to have a freeway put in.'

— Bob Forlizzo
— Crossroads businessman

ASSEMBLYMAN SAM Farr provided this artists' rendition of the proposed elevated freeway, seen looking west on Rio Road. (David Leland photos.)

Almost 400 people jammed into the cafeteria at Carmel Middle School last week to hear a progress report between Assemblyman Sam Farr's citizen group — which opposes portions of the plan — and Caltrans.

The two sides have been meeting monthly since the end of last year in an effort to come up with a highway that is environmentally prudent and, at the same time, meets federal safety standards. There will be a final meeting April 1 at the county offices in Monterey.

As the evening wore on and it became obvious that Caltrans would not waver on the issue of an at-grade intersection at Rio Road, the crowd became increasingly demanding and sometimes surly. Voicing frustration, some members of the audience suggested abandoning the entire freeway project altogether, a few wanted the raod depressed at that area, while others just would not take "no" for an answer.

Calling Caltrans' plans for the Rio Road area a "25-foot monster," Bob Forlizzo, owner of Bugaboo Mountaineering in The Crossroads, pleaded with Tom Pollock, Caltrans' district director, to have a change of heart.

"The big thing is there's got to be a better way than this," he said. "We didn't come here (Carmel) to have a freeway put in."

But Pollock was firm in his views, citing strict regulations set by the federal government, which will fund 80 percent of project. "I'm 95 percent certain that the government would not apply funding for a highway that ends with a signal at Rio Road," he said.

Caltrans' plans call for the Hatton Canyon Freeway to go over Rio Road, with no on-ramps or off-ramps, an idea that has merchants dismayed and residents angry because they fear a concrete monolith rising in front of their homes will forever destroy the area's rural setting.

Pollock added that it would take an additional $20 million to depress the road, because all of the power lines and sewer pipes would have to be replaced and the area would have poor drainage.

"We have reached a virtual impasse on the at-grade intersection," said Farr, who moderated the two-hour meeting. "That impasse is something that is a critical decision for this county, and that is why you have to be informed."

CALTRANS WAS represented by Pollock and Project Engineer Ken Jones, while Farr's group was represented by 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman and Paul Lang, of Greiner Engineering, Inc.,

'In our judgment, we've thoroughly solved the problem at Carmel Valley Road and Rio Road. If we were told we had to terminate the freeway at Carmel Valley Road, I'd say 'Why build the freeway at all?' '

— Tom Pollock

a firm which has been hired by Rio Road merchants to draw up alternative plans.

While Greiner presented drawings at the meeting, which showed a signalized intersection at Rio Road, Pollock said that the idea is not safe.

Mayor's race heats up as background is questioned

By NANCY HILLS

POLITICS AND the past actions can make for confusing bedfellows, as Carmel residents are finding out as the campaign for mayor heats up.

For example, last week Mayor Clint Eastwood's "Mayor's Report" in the Carmel Pine Cone questioned mayoral candidate Clayton Anderson's performance as a Washington state parks director 25 years ago.

But there are — as in so many cases — two sides to the story, one that supports Anderson's contention that it was his resistance to political arm-twisting that prompted his resignation and not a poor performance as an administrator.

The Carmel Pine Cone has only seen the two articles quoted by Mayor Clint Eastwood in his March 24 Mayor's Report. (Articles requested last week from The Seattle Times arrived late Wednesday morning — past deadline.)

Eastwood also endorsed one of Anderson's opponents, Jean Grace, in a previous column.

In the column, Eastwood quotes two short Associated Press stories which ran in two Oregon newspapers about Anderson's resignation from his post as Washington state parks director.

Eastwood quoted an Aug. 18, 1963 article in The Oregonian which stated that Anderson resigned his post of about a year and a half after a three-hour executive session of the state parks commissioners, Anderson and then-Gov. Albert "Al" Rosellini.

Anderson, the article stated, had been the "object of criticism the past several weeks after reports of low morale and dissesion in his department persisted."

Anderson resigned in the interest of "harmony and progress" in his department, according to the newspaper. A two-paragraph story in the Aug. 20, 1963 Oregon Journal is quoted by Eastwood with the same information and he refers to, without quoting them, "similar articles" in The Seattle Times and The Seattle Post Intelligencer.

He did not, however, quote a paragraph that contained an announcement issued by the commission that they had nothing but "praise for his professional ability and the departmental program."

Eastwood, when asked this week by The Carmel Pine Cone if he had anything on the 25-year-old matter other than the articles he quoted and referred to, said he had none.

Eastwood said he just wanted say "let's ask questions" and point out that there was some controversy in Anderson's career, particularly since Anderson uses that career as a basis for his qualifications for office.

"I'm just saying 'Look into all the candidate's qualifications,' ", he said.

Using the Mayor's Report for such articles has "precedent," Eastwood said; other guest columnists have also used similar space to express their opinions.

The Carmel Pine Cone has also found that the U.S. Department of Interior had received a request from someone identifying him or herself as from Eastwood's office requesting confirmation of the dates on Anderson's resume of his years with the Department of Interior.

Eastwood, when questioned about that, said "I'm not going to discuss all that." When someone hands him a resume, any check on that is between the two parties involved, he said.

Anderson worked for that department after he left the state of Washington, from 1964 to 1976. There are also reports of someone contacting — though not identified as being with Eastwood's office — the city attorney in Eugene, Ore. to ask if the attorney had any information on Anderson.

Anderson said of the column, "That's his thing. If that's what he wants to do, well, OK."

He added, "I don't want to get into name calling."

Anderson said he left the Washington parks department because Rosellini wanted him to "contribute" to his campaign and clear his appointees and employees through the state Democratic chairman.

"I told him I wasn't going to do that," he said.

After that, he started lining up another job and received an offer from the Bureau of Land Management.

EDITORIALS IN other Washington and Oregon newspapers and conversations with people involved also refer to the political aspect of Anderson's departure.

The articles in Washington and Oregon papers question Rosellini's political reasons for advocating Anderson's resignation from his position as state parks director.

Also, interviews by The Carmel Pine Cone with reporters and others in the state of Washington support reports that the resignation was the result of politics rather than a poor job performance by Anderson.

One reporter now with the Los Angeles Times Washington, D.C. bureau, Jack Kempster, was the United Press International Washington state stringer. To Kempster's recollection, who said he was "plumbing the absolute depth of his memory," Anderson's resignation was triggered by political problems. The Rosellini administration was known for its political dealings, he said.

To Kempster's recollection, the governor wanted Anderson to become involved in his re-election campaign. After Anderson refus-

Final general plan revisions to come before council

By DAVID LELAND

THE CARMEL City Council will review amendments to the housing and architectural/cultural/historic resources elements of the city's general plan at next week's meeting.

During the past year, the 1983-84 general plan has been undergoing an overhaul and has been the subject of lengthy public scrutiny in both the general plan committee and at the Carmel Planning Commission.

The council will meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday, April 5, in the Carmel Woman's Club, located at Ninth Avenue and San Carlos Street.

The housing element, as mandated by state law, identifies and analyzes the existing and projected housing needs in the city. The amendments also set goals and schedules programs for the improvement and development of housing.

One of the principal concerns of the general plan's housing element is the move away from permanent residents, which are being replaced by transients, or short-term visitors.

"One of the purposes of this housing element, and indeed of the entire general plan, is to encourage a reversal of that trend," the report says. "This can be achieved by providing incentives to commercial and to private interests to re-establish Carmel as a community of residents and a residential community, instead of becoming more and more a visitor-oriented commercial enterprise."

With that in mind, the general plan revisions go into an extensive amount of detail when referring to the way growth should progress up to the year 2000.

There are currently 111 vacant parcels, 94 potential new parcels split from multiple-lot parcels and 663 potential parcels based on original subdivisions, that could be used for single-family dwelling, according to the city planning and building department.

The general plan revisions also suggest utilizing the R-4 District, the city's largest parcel of developable land.

"Approximately 40 percent of this 6-acre district is vacant or undeveloped," the report says. "Under existing zoning, development of this area could result in an additional 94 dwelling units."

The revisions also take into account the commercial district.

"Approximately 30 percent of the commercial district area contains single-story structures which could be partially redeveloped with second-story apartments," the report says. "At this time, this would represent about 540 additional dwelling units.

The current general plan amendments also take into account the city's arbitrary and limited water supply.

The city's water management plan gives priority to vacant lots of record over all other land uses, the report says.

"In January 1988, an additional 100 acre feet of water was provided to the city," the

Fear for Carmel

Dear Editor:

For the first time, I fear for Carmel.

I fear a candidate for mayor who after living here only a few years thinks he is qualified to solve all our problems.

I fear a candidate whose views and actions have not gone through the crucible of long assessment by his fellow citizens.

I fear a candidate whose career seems to have been spent largely at the public purse.

I fear a candidate who organizes an innocent-sounding neighborhood association and tries to convert it into a political machine. (Reminds me of the Chicago Ward Boss machine.)

I fear a candidate whose trust level is so low that he finds something sinister in Mayor Clint Eastwood's generous action in saving Mission Ranch from developers.

I fear a candidate who distorts the record of the present administration beyond recognition, in his efforts to get votes.

I fear a candidate who courts endorsements like the Sierra Club's, which have nothing to do with the election issues.

55 In short, I fear the Greeks bearing bagels.

Carmel's gain

Dear Editor:

On a recent visit to your lovely city a friend of ours noted that Clayton Anderson is a candidate for mayor of Carmel. The people of Carmel are indeed fortunate to have a person of his ability and quality seeking public office.

We have known Clayton Anderson in both a personal and professional capacity for a number of years. He is one of those too-rare individuals who is willing to become involved. We could provide you with a long list of Clayton's accomplishments in the area of public service. Suffice it to say that on numerous occasions his personal involvement, industry and dedication have made our community a much better place to live.

Salem's loss is truly Carmel's gain! We envy you.

Full-time position

Dear Editor:

In her campaign literature Jean Grace says she promises to be available by telephone and in person at city hall. I ask how is that possible when she is employed full time by a public agency? I realize that the mayor does not run the city; there is a paid administrator to do that. However, in the best time-honored Carmel tradition, the mayor has always been (at least prior to the current officeholder), available by telephone or in person at city hall.

Clayton Anderson, recently retired public administrator, will be available for meetings at any hour. Clayton will have the time to study all the reports and documents necessary to make good decisions. He will have the time to talk with and listen to the people of Carmel so that he will not have to be guided by advisors. Clayton Anderson will be our full-time, fully informed mayor.

Private parking

Dear Editor:

I have had some experience with city-operated parking garages. Councilman Bob Evans and other parking committee members are absolutely correct in feeling that private operators are more efficient. The better ones know their business and serve the city and its citizens best.

In Paris, France and in Hong Kong, I have negotiated with those who operate city-owned car parks. In both cases, they lose money and do a less-than-satisfactory job. Carmel can have an excellent and well-run facility at Sunset Center at no cost and no operating expenses.

A company with world-wide experience is one I have worked with for a number of years. They have my complete confidence. If the city council is interested, I would be delighted to be of assistance.

Dry dogfood

Dear Editor:

Let's be fair!

I am a Carmel-by-the-Sea resident, registered to vote in the April 12, 1988 election for Carmel candidates for mayor and city council. I attended the Carmel Resident's Association meeting, sponsored by the Carmel League of Women Voters, March 3 in the Women's Club in Carmel, which heard statements from the mayoral candidates, six in all.

Herald writer Ken Schultz obviously left the affair early on and was not in attendance when candidate Paul Blaine Henrie received the most profound applause of the evening when he defended the current Mayor, Mr. Clint Eastwood, and admonished the candidates Anderson and Laub for their cutting views of Mr. Eastwood's disinterest in signing over to the City a $6 million piece of real estate. Staff writer Schultz would have indeed been proud to note in his column that candidate Henrie cited three things the Carmel residents should be appreciative of: 1) Eastwood saved the property from development of any type in his lifetime; 2) He protected the view of Point Lobos and the wetlands and allows all of us to freely walk his property openly! 3) The Mission Ranch is exactly as it has been for years, with the exception of a new kitchen, rail fencing (whitewashed), flowers and a remodeled dining room where endless "songsters" sing as they have sung for 50 years and counting!

It is a sad note, when a writer is prone to set down a mistake concerning parking permits, offered by a candidate seeking office, when, in fact, the idea was probably stolen from him in the first place! Candidate Henrie is a fresh approach to the "Dry Dogfood" we residents have been forced to swallow by former mayors (Eastwood excepted), and again are being fed generous amounts once more by Anderson and Laub.

Precarious balance

Dear Editor:

This year Carmel is fortunate in having two able mayoral candidates: Jean Grace and Clayton Anderson. Both are experienced; either would serve well. After listening and thinking, however, we feel the latter would be the best choice for a community precariously balanced between residential and commercial interests.

Anderson has had wide public administrative experience and also run his own retail business. As a still comparatively young retiree he is equipped with the energy and time needed to help Carmel function both as an entity and part of the overall peninsula pattern.

Jean Grace's county and regional expertise would certainly qualify her for service as an excellent supervisor or member of the state Legislature. We would gladly support her should she ever decide to run.

Three cheers

Dear Editor:

People who live in this beautiful area, as well as the multitudes who pass by now and in the future, are all in the debt of Catherine Woodward.

She has made tremendous efforts and spent countless hours as a watchdog of our coast. Her primary goal has been to keep our spectacular viewshed.

Sam Farr, realizing the quality as well as the quantity of Catherine Woodward's dedication, presented her with a truly deserved award in the form of a resolution under the Seal of the California State Assembly. Good for Sam and three cheers for Catherine.

Slap in the face

Dear Editor:

I'm writing on the behalf of skateboarding in Carmel. I'm 17 and have been riding a board for transportation for about seven years. Why has the council outlawed my only form of transportation? This is not only a slap in the face to the young people of our community, but it is also a step backward to solving the traffic problems we face.

I was happy to hear one candidate for office call for a bike lane through Carmel. I think that is a very good idea. If I could vote, I'd vote for him. I just hope there are some people who share my concerns and will help this come about.

No justification

Dear Editor:

Considering the gravity of the federal deficits, both budgetary and balance of payments, how can the federal government justify providing 80 percent of the funds necessary to build the Hatton Canyon freeway? This freeway certainly doesn't qualify as a necessary expenditure.

After spending $20 million and destroying valuable greenbelt, to say nothing of the small town character of that area, there will still be traffic backed up on the offramps and maybe even onto the freeway, creating a more hazardous traffic situation than already exists. Most of the traffic will still be trying to get through the jammed intersections off the freeway. There's relatively little southbound traffic running through the peninsula. Most traffic is local and wouldn't be relieved by the freeway. Carmel Hill will still be congested. It'll be LA city all over again.

For a fraction of that $20 million, the federal government could do something really worthwhile by purchasing the Westbrook property off San Carlos Ranch Road before its fine stand of giant redwood trees is logged this April. This property could be added to the Los Padres National Forest. Alternatively, the state of California could purchase this property as a state park for less than its minimal participation in the Hatton Canyon freeway project. If our government has to add to its financial problems, it could at least be unconstructive and preserve some of our mountain wilderness for all time.

The right to burn

Dear Editor:

After reading numerous opinions regarding the pros and cons on the burn issue, I'd like to bring to the attention of those who oppose it, that I have owned property here some 30 years. The land has an apricot orchard that had been planted by Roy Martin many years ago.

Each year pruning has been faithfully carried out. I've also had to cut dead and/or diseased limbs. Only by burning can we destroy the diseased branches to prevent spread to healthy trees.

Proper burning produces such a minimal amount of hazardous smoke that after a few minutes, there's only a hot fire that is relatively smokeless.

Please don't take away my right to burn at pruning time. There are many other pollutant problems that are much more serious than the burn issue. Like the poor quality of our water supply today in comparison to 30 or 35 years ago.

Just the facts

Dear Editor:

One of our candidates for mayor (name not necessary), claims that 16 commercial projects have been approved by the present administration for building permits. It actually is just four. Following are the facts.

The following were approved by previous administrations: condominium, McDowney; condominium, Freschi; motel, Little; retail offices, Eastwood; office-apartments; D'Isidro; shops-apartments, Gould.

The following were interior alterations only: ice cream shop, La Itgian; restaurant, Pepe; restaurant, Jacobs; shop division, Silva; restrooms, Johnson; shop division, Freschi; offices, Bills.

Ice cream shop, Baldwin (no longer in operation); residential care, Kleinhardt, was withdrawn.

Building permits approved in last two years:

1. Senior citizens, city, low-cost housing;
2. Residential apartments, Walls, new construction;
3. Apartments, Leidig, second-floor addition;
4. Retail and offices, Hakim, use permit.

Conserve, Carmel

Dear Editor:

Water is one of our most precious commodities and we all need to realize this.

I realize most of you are accustomed to living in this land of enchantment and often not thinking beyond that — but now we must.

The time is here when we must all realize the extreme seriousness of our dry spell here.

Maybe we'll have to water those lovely plants less and let the grass go a little bit brown and watch the water level of the washer. We need to conserve our water now.

It may be wise for us all to have shorter showers, not let unnecessary water run while brushing our teeth and take smaller baths. We need to band together AND NOW to save water — not wait until it is too late.

This is good for us to do. We take so much for granted daily. Perhaps this will awaken us — and have us realize there is more to life than our little fairy land like village of Carmel.

The agony of it all

Dear Editor:

We are rapidly approaching an election date of vital concern to all of us within the community.

I, like many others, shudder when I pick up our favorite newspaper as of late. Each week, in the Carmel Pine Cone, the same rhetoric reflecting the same negativism that has been so consistently expounded by the same authors. Do they awaken each morning, with pen in hand, to put on paper their consistent nightmare dribblings that have hounded them all their lives.

I ignore, and deplore, their biased, negative creativity. Their attitude is one of always being right. These unfortunate folk do not give us the credit for possessing enough intelligence to arrive at our own conclusions without their "guidance."

I would say to Mayor Clint Eastwood — thank you for bringing our community "out of the dark ages." As Mayor of Carmel-by-the-Sea, you have proved to be "outstanding." I am delighted to have been a part of your administration. I know that many many others join me in thanking you for your dedication to your community and the many contributions that you have made including guidance, time and effort; and the most important of all — accomplishments.

I did not wish to jump into this political "fray" nor partake in some of the viciousness that has been displayed by certain individuals. However, my name has been used and by its very use may tacitly indicate that I support a certain candidate when I do NOT.

In your last issue, you interviewed Mr. Clayton Anderson. He is quoted as stating that he is a "consultant" to the Handley Committee which was formed by the mayor and the city council. I was named as chairman. Mr. Anderson is NOT a member of this committee nor is he a "consultant." I had sought a committee that would be small in size and to consist of special individuals (non-political) that would be able to seek viable answers to some very complex issues concerning the Handley property. This was accomplished and a talented group of people joined the committee upon request. They represent all aspects of Carmel.

If my direction had been to seek candidates, I would have looked in the direction of "real" locals. Jean Grace, Ken White and Jack Kennedy would have certainly filled this need. These people are most competent for any position they seek.

Shooting from the hip

Dear Editor:

As a member of the Parking Committee whose report was adopted at the city council meeting of March 1, I am concerned that the material it contained was mostly overlooked in Clayton Anderson's interview in the Pine Cone last week. I'm sure he would have modified his comments on the proposed facility at Sunset if he had observed all the points made in the report.

His remark about "shooting from the hip" is especially inappropriate considering the great amount of work done by the committee and by the city administrator. And it's not as though it were a brand-new idea since it has been considered by previous administrations as well as this one.

The interview advances one different idea, though not a good one. It proposes striping the present parking lot to see if charging a fee would work. Mr. Anderson says this would raise a "couple of thousand dollars a day." Taking that to mean $2,000 and figuring on 135 spaces, that would come to $15 per day per parking place. A few paragraphs earlier he said that employees couldn't afford $1.50 per hour, so it's a little baffling who would provide this revenue.

The Parking Committee proposal was that long-term parking be at an initial rate of $30 per month and transient parking at $1.50 per hour and the report stressed that the facility had to be part of an overall plan in which we intended that parking on the nearby residential streets would also be addressed. Anyone on the committee would have been glad to discuss the report with Mr. Anderson prior to his interview, but "shooting from the hip" seems to be more his style than the committee's.

This administration for the first time is moving Sunset parking along to the point where our residents will have a chance to consider a sensitive design, a financial plan and an overall parking approach. If we don't like it, we can reject or modify it. A candidate for mayor ought to be supportive of these efforts.

Robert H. Evans

Difficult challenges

Dear Editor:

Those of us who have supported Clint as mayor are concerned that his successor be someone who shares his philosophy and goals for our community. At a time when the village faces many difficult challenges, some arising from local concerns, while others are the result of outside pressures, it is important that we carefully assess the qualifications and experiences of the candidates in the forthcoming elections.

Most of us who reside here, and who have enjoyed Carmel's special qualities — in my case, over 80 years — are aware that dissension in city government could open the door to special interests that could reduce citizen control over local affairs. Particularly at a time when there is so much potential for conflict, we need candidates who have a strong, consistent record of promoting cooperation at work and in community affairs, who seek harmonious discussion of problems, and who can creatively reflect our desires and needs.

I recommend along with Mayor Eastwood that we ensure, by our questions of candidates, that the ongoing needs of our citizens and city staff are met.

New planning commission

Dear Editor:

When the next administration takes office let's hope that history repeats itself and the current planning commission is fired, tactfully, and a new commission is appointed that will serve the interests of both the established residents and the developers on an equal basis.

From my observation at planning commission meetings during the past two years, the scale has been tilted toward the developer. If a proposed residential project met the minimum setback and height requirements, it was approved regardless of the impact on adjoining properties.

The city of Carmel-by-the-Sea needs a new planning commission that really believes in the design review objectives.

Out like a lamb

Dear Editor:

There has been an undeniable increase in council meeting attendance in these past 23 months. A growing body of persons in our community have felt a strong need to begin taking their role of citizens seriously. Residents have become more watchful and wary because of a real concern for the preservation of Carmel's very special quality, which they felt was threatened as never before. We've learned a lot. Government is not a spectator sport that many people expect it to be, nor on occasion, try to make it.

These two years have been stormier than anyone might believe a village our size could warrant. It's not been a happy time. Anyone who has not been aware of this has not been a regular meeting attender, nor has he read the press. There has been dissension, low morale, acerbity in public discourse, persons ridiculed, insinuative attacks, rumor-mongering, and general unbecoming behavior. This must change. And the responsibility is ours alone. We know that "the highest role in a democracy is that of citizen," and if one either thinks or relies on the staff of a city or its elected officials to run the city for him, without his watchfulness, he has abrogated his role as citizen.

Carmel was probably never popular for the reasons many think it was. But it is questionable that tourists still come because it is a lovely little village set in a forest on the sea. And with more commercialism, influx of crowds, business is off. Little wonder residents become apprehensive. Maybe it's time for Carmel to return to more dignity and quality, and some semblance of the quiet beauty that will welcome visitors that come for the same reasons that we came here, and stayed. What can we do?

There isn't much time left. The stormy weather in a political climate doesn't abate. Two years ago March came in like a lion. Let us pray that it goes out like a lamb. As it's supposed to do.

SAAB'S INNOVATIVE TECHNOLOGY AND ENGINEERING PROWESS START AT AROUND $15,000 AND DON'T STOP UNTIL ABOUT $20 MILLION.

The idea of "shared technology" has a long history at Saab. In fact, the first Saab cars weren't even conceived by automotive engineers, they were designed by aircraft engineers. All of which helps explain why Saabs have always been known for their innovative approach. Innovations such as one of the first uses of turbocharging in a standard production car. One of the earliest applications of 16-valve cylinder head technology and front-wheel drive. Dual-diagonal braking. Energy-absorbing, collapsible steering columns. And most recently, the addition of an ABS antilock braking system to all Saab 9000's. But to experience this technology in a far more moving fashion we suggest you visit us soon. Well-versed

Dear Editor:

Ten years ago I met Clayton Anderson, no newcomer to Carmel. He was well-versed on our big problems of water, tourism, business quality, parking and traffic. His clarity of mind refreshed my own.

Anderson had no desire to enter the political arena until this year when urged to do so because of his wide-ranging experience in public service and as a business entrepreneur. He is accustomed to making policy decisions on questions many times greater than Carmel's.

Anderson's life has been one of pulling people together for a sense of community. He understands the healing process. Because he has the personal time to meet and work with people any day of the week, he will give exceptional service and get things done.

Spaghetti freeway

Dear Editor:

Thanks to the meeting organized by Sam Farr on March 24th at Carmel Middle School concerning the design of the Hatton Canyon Freeway project, many of those who attended became better acquainted with the total inappropriateness of the design presented by Caltrans.

The one plan Caltrans did display (absent were their models and renderings of elevations), showed roads and interchanges emerging from Hatton Canyon that looked like cooked spaghetti spilling out of a can. No one denies the need for relief from the congestion experienced daily at Carmel Valley and Rio roads, but to suggest that the only way to solve the problem is to construct raised roadways and interchanges at the mouth of the valley resembling those found in urban San Jose or Los Angeles boggles the mind.

One of the reasons Caltrans defended its design approach was that traffic traveling 55 mph or more had to be accommodated through Hatton Canyon and the short stretch between Carmel Valley Road and the end of the freeway just south of Carmel River bridge. I would encourage all of the residents within earshot of this proposed freeway to consider the horrendous noise levels emanating from automobiles, motorcycles, buses and big rigs as they roar at those speeds toward their two-lane road destinations.

Determining the best design to solve this local traffic problem is of utmost importance and should be arrived at with most careful and sensitive consideration; for the effects of this decision will be with us for a lifetime and more.

Pause that refreshes

Dear Editor:

Some years back a cola company used as a sales pitch the slogan "the pause that refreshes." It came back to me yesterday when I paused to read Jim Dougherty's refreshing piece "Let's look at the facts," dealing with his protracted fight to rescue Spencers Stationery.

The statements quoted by Mr. Dougherty also brought to mind the old adage "fine words butter no parsnips."

So it was with joyous relief one realized that it is possible to triumph even over high-level crotchety precepts through reductio ad absurdum. And in the process save from destruction another endangered Carmel species: The Resident-Oriented Store.

And, not only that, but in the process Mr. Dougherty managed to give us a brand new store that easily qualifies as the town's prettiest. That is what my wife says and she is not into flummery when it comes to stationery stores.

Bully for you, Mr. Dougherty! We are grateful and we shake your hand.

Carmel almost had itself a couple of Angels

By DAVID LELAND

WHILE NORTHRIDGE Mall in Salinas could hardly be confused with Schwab's Drug Store in Hollywood, it did serve as a stepping stone to stardom earlier this month, when a bevy of hopeful starlets auditioned for a revival of Charlie's Angels.

And while Carmel did not produce a Lana Turner, it did offer two of the five finalists (out of 400 women), in the competition — Kari Wolsky and Nanci New.

Many people remember Charlie's Angels, the hit television show, which aired in the 1970s.

The drama featured three beautiful women who solved crimes under the direction of an unseen Charlie, who was played by Dynasty's John Forsythe.

The series also marked the beginning of successful careers for Angels Farrah Fawcett, Cheryl Ladd and Jaclyn Smith.

Now, Aaron Spelling Productions has been scouring the country in search of three more beauties to play the comely angels in the revival, Angels '88.

More than 400 women spent the day at Northridge Mall as three local judges did their best to pare the field down to five finalists. The event was sponsored by KCBA-35, the Fox Broadcasting affiliate in Salinas.

"I heard about it from a friend and went over at the last minute," gushes New, 24, whose acting career formerly had consisted of several plays performed while in elementary school. "I got lucky."

Well not really as lucky as she could have been. The winner, Cyndy Marshall of Salinas, was sent to Nashville, Tenn. to compete with other finalists from regional competitions nationwide.

While the first part of the competition took place on Saturday, when hopefuls filled out applications and submitted to snapshots and interviews, the 20 semi-finalists underwent more scrutiny on Sunday.

At that time, the women read a test script and then were videotaped to see how they came across on film.

"In high school I was in every play and musical that there was," says Wolsky, 22, of her previous life as a thespian. "But it's never gone any further."

THE JUDGES, Montery Film Festival's John Rooker; former Miss California Pagent judge Dr. Norman Halfpenny; and Western Stage's Harvey Landa, had their hands full, figuratively speaking, of course.

"It was a tough call," remembers Rooker. "We recognized something special in all five of the girls chosen. We really feel that every single one of them was a potential."

Both women appeared to take the loss in stride.

'I'm keeping in touch with a few of the people I met through this and hopefully it will open a few doors. At least now I've been seen in Hollywood.'

— Nancy New

'Because I didn't plan on winning, after I did it (audition), I didn't think about it again. I wasn't upset at all.'

— Kari Wolsky

But still, for both of the women, the experience was both fun and, at the same time, a glimpse into what could be if they choose to seriously pursue an acting carrer.

"I did it as a joke," says Wolsky, who is an account executive for MCI Telecommunications in Salinas. "I wasn't planning on it — it was on the spur of the moment."

"It was disappointing," says New, who currently works as a concierge at The Inn at Spanish Bay. "I was looking forward to going to Nashville, but I was thrilled to get as far as I did."

Wolsky, a singer who wants to become a local model in print and on television, was completely stoic about the results.

"Because I didn't plan on winning, after I did it (audition), I didn't think about it again," she says. "I wasn't upset at all."

For New, who says her interest in acting has be rekindled and will sign up for some acting courses at the Frohman Academy, the role on Angels '88 would have mirrored real life.

"My lifestyle is similar to the roles they play," says New, of the globetrotting Angels. "I'm an extreme adventurer."

Indeed, she claims skydiving, camel safaries, flying and sailing as interests — and she's not through yet.

"The things I haven't tried yet I still want to do," she says, naming as examples, hang gliding and hiking in Nepal.

She now plans to utilize this month's experience to her best advantange.

"I'm keeping in touch with a few of the people I met through this and hopefully it will open a few doors," she explains. "At least now I've been seen in Hollywood."

FINALIST NANCI New says that her adventerous life often resembles the escapades that faced members of TV's Charlie's Angels during their weekly series. (Mac McDonald photo.)

JEAN GRACE FOR MAYOR

CARMEL • BY • THE • SEA APRIL 12, 1988

JEAN GRACE ON PLANNING

The essence of our General Plan and Zoning Ordinance is the Preservation of our quiet residential areas, small town atmosphere and beautiful open spaces. Jean Grace is proud to have been associated with both the 1984 General Plan and its revisions in 1988.

Assertions that the revisions have weakened the General Plan and opened the door to commercial development are not true. Regarding land use and growth, the Expanded Initial Study/EIR Addendum for the 1988 revisions, prepared by an independent consultant, states, in part:

> "The revised plan retains the majority of the policies contained in the 1984 General Plan, which will serve to mitigate the impacts of cumulative buildout within the City. The buildout potential within the City is silimar to the 1984 General Plan, and the environmental effects of the revised plan would not increase from those discussed in the 1984 General Plan EIR. Therefore, no significant impacts are expected as a result of the adoption of the revised General Plan."

Jean Grace firmly believes that our Zoning Ordinance, which has been modified and fine-tuned to meet changing situations throughout its existence, is the principal reason for Carmel's unique character being preserved, and that it continues to be an effective tool in dealing with present and future development.

Candidate James Ogle has artistic vision for city

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL CITY Council candidate and local artist/businessman James Ogle likes to think of himself as someone who covers all the bases, and says he will address both residential and commercial concerns if elected.

Ogle is running for one of two vacant seats on the city council in the upcoming April 12 election.

"We need some leadership in both the parking problems and areas concerning residentially oriented businesses and the fine arts," explains the 8-year Carmel resident.

'The present candidates have had time to put input into these problems, but they've not addressed them with the new ideas that I have to propose. I want to work on these problems amiably and flexibly.'

— James Ogle
— Council candidate

Ogle, who owns and operates Ogle Gallery and Graphics, in Redwood Court, off Mission Street, says that he presents a fresh approach to Carmel's on-going problems.

"The present candidates have had time to put input into these problems, but they've not addressed them with the new ideas that I have to propose," he says. "I want to work on these problems amiably and flexibly."

A native of Alabama, Ogle, 30, studied at the Art Institute of Chicago, the Cape School of Impressionism in Cape Cod, Mass., and at the University of Oregon at Eugene, before moving to the peninsula.

While some question Ogle's list of priorities, he says that he has the identical concerns of the other candidates.

"I do care about the parking problem in Carmel," he says. "Though I think that improving the bus stops and bike trails would help the parking problems — I'm not sure it's the only answer."

Ogle suggests that Carmel and the Monterey Salinas Transit system attempt to make it more appealing to ride the bus on the peninsula.

He says that bus stops should be constructed with higher curbs so there is not such a big step up to the bus, and there should be more shelters to protect people from the elements.

He adds that there should be bike racks on the buses so people can ride the bus and then ride their bikes to work.

Ogle has drawn up plans for a bike path which would link peninsula cities.

"I don't want to add more pavement," he explains. "But do things to help improve the bicycle riding situation."

He stresses that before the city pursues more traditional parking solutions, the bus and bike options need to be explored.

"The bus and bike (issues) should come before the parking deck," says Ogle, referring to plans to build an underground parking garage at the north end of Sunset Center. "I'm willing to look at plans for a parking structure."

If there is a need to review plans for a parking garage, Ogle says that his background in the arts will work to his benefit.

"I'm more qualified to make a decision on that than the other candidates," he explains. "Because I'm an artist, an architect and a businessperson."

He adds that Sunset Center is a likely location to construct a parking garage to ease the city's parking woes.

"I think it's probably the best place, if there's going to be one built," he says.

OGLE SAYS that, because he operates a successful small business, he has the acumen to help guide the city's finances.

"Working on the city council is like running a successful business, only on a smaller scale," he says. "So, therefore, since I have a small business, I have the experience for the job."

Ogle says that he is in touch with the needs of the business community.

"I work downtown, I'm always downtown," he says. "The little things that affect resident-oriented businesses I'm aware of — the very small problems. I feel that I'm in touch with the business community."

He blames the Carmel Planning Commission's strict interpretation of the city's ordinances as part of an on-going problem.

"You can't just go in and say "No" to everyone because you're anti-progress," he says. "You have to be flexible to the small-business concerns. The inflexibility on the planning commission brings more appeals to the city council."

Ogle also advocates the city buying the Handley property and building a park on much of the land.

He also suggests that the city act as landlord in resident-oriented business along

LOCAL ARTIST and Carmel City Council candidate, James Ogle, believes there are other alternatives in the city that should be explored in addition to parking lots. Here, he is shown in a self-portrait.

Junipero Avenue on the Handley property, with shops selling items such as sewing items and household goods.

Ogle also that, if elected to the city council, he would:

• Keep the Flanders and Martin Way property open space.

"I promise, if I'm elected, that I'll do my best to make sure there's less pavement," he boasts. "Rather than build parking lots, I want to expand green areas, both downtown and residential areas."

• Attempt to involve local artists in community affairs, such as the Carmel Cultural Commission.

"There hasn't been a painter on the cultural commission for the last 20 years, that I know of," he complains. "We need to do something to promote the local artists better."

Currently, Ogle says the artists are left to fend for themselves.

"Who's going to look out for the rights of local artists," he asks, "the Gallery Guide?"

• Provide low-cost housing by suggesting that the city look into the concept of the "thermal envelope solar teepee."

For less than $20,000, he says, people could be living in a manner that fits with the ecology.

Candidate Ken White responds to charges in mayor's column

CARMEL PLANNING Commissioner and City Council candidate Ken White responded to claims that he is absent from Carmel during the summer months, and therefore, would not make a good councilmember.

"The mayor has received some wrong information from his advisors," said White, referring to a recent Mayor's Report column in The Pine Cone in which Mayor Clint Eastwood questioned White's attendance record with the planning commission. Eastwood said that White leaves town "religiously" for three months during the summer.

Each summer, White said, he and his family lease their home in Carmel to the Carmel Bach Festival for six weeks, while they vacation at Donner Lake.

He said that he is always in contact with the city and is easily reachable. "I'm a five-hour drive or an hour's flight (away)," he said.

White added that, if elected to the council, he would not miss any council meetings.

"For an elected position in the city my vacation will not interfere because I am so close," he said. "I would come back, obviously."

He added that everyone deserves a vacation.

"I think the issue of a vacation is a non-issue," he said. "A lot of people who are on commissions take vacations. I'm sure, like me, they leave their place and phone number so they can be reached."

White said he has averaged two meetings a week during the Eastwood administration.

"I've never worked so hard for any mayor in my life," he said. "And I've enjoyed every minute of it."

Carmel Pine Cone to host forum for candidates

THE CARMEL Pine Cone will host a final forum before the April 12 election, this one featuring the six candidates running for mayor.

The second Meet the Press-type forum with the candidates will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday, April 4 at the Carmel Woman's Club, Ninth and San Carlos.

Moderator for the April 4 forum will be news anchor Joe Glover of KSBW-8.

Panelists will include news anchor George Reading of KMST-46, Nancy Hills of the Carmel Pine Cone and Ann O'Neill of the San Jose Mercury News.

Panelists will direct questions to individual candidates, with other candidates given opportunities for rebuttal or comment. No questions will be taken from the audience, but should you have a question or questions, please send to Mac McDonald c/o Carmel Pine Cone PO Box G-1, Carmel 93921, or drop off at the office at Ocean and San Carlos. For more information call 624-0162.

Use of radar on CV Road to be discussed

A PUBLIC forum discussion of the possible use of radar on Carmel Valley Road to cut speed and accidents has been scheduled by the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 6 at Rancho Canada Golf Club on Carmel Valley Road, one-half mile from Highway 1. CVPOA is being joined in sponsoring the meeting by seven other valley organizations, according to R.T. Nimmons, CVPOA president.

Nimmons said the meeting is open to the general public as well as to all CVPOA members who have been notified of the meeting through the mail. The forum is designed to solicit pro and con views from valley residents on the use of radar.

Co-sponsoring the meeting with CVPOA are Del Mesa Carmel, Carmel Valley Manor, Carmel Valley Village Improvement Committee, the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce, the Contractors' Alliance of Carmel Valley, All-Saints' Episcopal Bay School, and Rancho Canada Golf Club, which is providing the facilities for the meeting.

CVPOA will present the results of extensive research it has undertaken on radar's use elsewhere in the state, costs of the project, and steps to be taken if the valley public favors the proposal, Nimmons said.

Speakers will be present from the California Highway Patrol and the Monterey County Department of Public Works to furnish additional background and answer questions.

"This forum is designed to give residents a chance to voice their views and learn more about radar's applications," Nimmons said. "In order for the program to succeed it would need a broad base of public support and understanding. We need the views of residents and these will be invited and encouraged at the April 6 meeting. We particularly hope that the general public from throughout the valley will attend and take part."

If public enthusiasm for radar is shown, and if the CVPOA board approves, plans call for funding the purchase cost of two mobile radar units at an approximate total cost of $4,000. Funds would be secured by public donations from organizations and individuals. Pledges of approximately $1,000 toward the purchase have been received, Nimmons said. The radar units would be turned over to the county and installed by the highway patrol in squad cars, which would then patrol and monitor Carmel Valley Road.

CVPOA invites comments on the program, Nimmons said, and invited valley residents to write their pro and con views to CVPOA, Box 157, Carmel Valley, 93924.

Easter Egg Hunt set for April 2

CARMEL AREA youth are invited to participate in the Easter Egg Hunt on Saturday, April 2.

The hunt will begin at 10:30 a.m. at Larsen Field on Rio Road below the Mission. Kids are reminded to bring along their basket to collect eggs.

This year the egg hunt will be expanded, according to Bob Cunningham, president of the Mission 200 Lions Club. It will be an opportunity for more of the community to participate.

In addition to the egg hunt on Saturday, the annual Pancake Breakfast will be held at the Carmel Youth Center located at Fourth Avenue and Torres Street. Tickets for the breakfast are $3.50 for adults and $2 for youth and may be purchased from a Lions Club member or at the egg hunt.

The weekend of activity is sponsored by the Carmel-by-the-Sea Recreation Department, Carmel Youth Center and Mission 200 Lions Club.

LET'S LOOK AT THE FACTS

These are recent quotes from

HOWARD NIEMAN & CARLA RAMSEY

"We have tried to see that everyone gets the same treatment when they come before the Planning Commission."

"We try to be very balanced and very fair based on facts and principles."

"Each project and application should be treated as a particular case."

"We want to keep residential-type stores in Carmel."

"We want quality stores (in Carmel)."

Are these statements compatible with their records, or are they just window dressing for a political campaign? Some of us keep hearing one thing from Mr. Nieman and Ms. Ramsey, but we keep seeing another.

Both of them say they want to keep resident-oriented and quality stores in Carmel. Yet during their time on the commission we got Banana Republic, Laura Ashley, Benetton's and Mrs. Fields, stores found in any mall in the country, while we nearly lost Spencer's Stationery Store. What have Banana Republic, Laura Ashley, Benetton's and Mrs. Fields to do with the unique character of Carmel and why did Spencers undergo five months of petty harrassment from these two commissioners? These actions are hardly consistent with what they have been saying. Quality stores to them seem to be anyone who can pay the rent and those are not usually resident-oriented stores.

Mr. Nieman and Ms. Ramsey have also said, with regard to Spencers, that an exception for one requires an exception for all and, therefore, there ought to be no exceptions. It seems to me than an exception for all is not exception at all. Fairness requires the intelligent application of exceptions. They exist so that thinking men and women will know when to deviate from guidelines in the best interest of us all. Exceptions need not be precedents for all future actions. That's why they are called exceptions.

It takes self-confidence and courage to know when to make an exception to a rule. Computers churn out rigid decisions according to the information with which they were programmed. Men and women are put in decision-making positions because, unlike computers or rule books, they are expected to think. They are expected to have the courage of their convictions and to take responsibility for their own actions, not to parrot regulations. The law has both letter and intent, and it is for help in understanding its intent, that we seek leadership.

Mr. Nieman and Ms. Ramsey have preferred the comfort of hiding behind rule books to honest decision-making. They nearly cost us Spencers. In the next two years, as members of the City Council, with appellate power, they could cost us several more resident-serving businesses.

No matter how fair their electioneering slogans sound now, their records create enough doubt for Carmel voters to "just say No." We can elect anyone to read a rule book. That's no great feat. We need Carmelites on the council who can think too. Therefore, I strongly suggest you research the strengths of the other candidates.

A question of goals

A STUDY made several years ago showed that the members of a certain graduating class at Yale were successful in their chosen careers to the extent that they had clear written goals before they actually left college.

Only 3 percent of the class had bothered to write out their goals. That tiny group found what they were looking for in their careers. They were able to climb ladders they had identified rung by rung.

So what's the point? This past week we read an intriguing article in the Wall Street Journal about a man who vilified the securities industry because he couldn't make any money through his numerous attempts at active aggressive trading.

How can the markets be honest or worthwhile if a trader loses no matter what system he uses?

Interesting questions. More interesting, however, is the notion that you can invest without a clear goal. We personally know hundreds of people who do have clear goals developed either with or without a sympathetic stockbroker, who continue to meet their financial goals through the correct securities.

The point is, these folks have goals.

What are some typical goals?

You may want to invest for liquidity, which means you will sacrifice return for the ability to get at your money at a moment's notice.

Or your goal may be paying less taxes. Then you may have to reduce your concern for stability of principal. Most, though not all, tax-free investments contain some market risk.

Or perhaps your goal is maximum growth. Then you should consider the risks and rewards of the stock market because you can't possibly meet this goal with CDs or T-bills.

Imagine playing the 15th hole at Laguna Seca without preplanning, without stratgegy. Two times over the water to a green you can't see from the tee!

Does that sound scary?

Well then, how does your investment strategy make you feel?

Do you have a clear achievable goal?

Emergency services highlights rest of council agenda

THE CARMEL City Council Tuesday will attempt to take a position on a proposed county ordinance which would set a standard for the county's emergency ambulance service.

Last month, the council deferred the matter for 30 days so the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross could further discuss the ordinance and come up with a recommendation.

The Red Cross, which operates the city's ambulance service, now supports the ordinance. "The Carmel-By-The-Sea chapter of the Red Cross supports the coordination of emergency service throughout its geographic area," according to the minutes of a recent Red Cross board meeting. "And recognizes the ordinance now before the Monterey County Board of Supervisors."

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors will conduct its final hearing on the ordinance April 12 and appears ready to adopt the ordinance.

Agreeing with the Red Cross was Bill Hill, Carmel's assistant fire chief, who coordinates the department's role in emergency service.

"Our comments, as before, and will be again, that we are happy with the operational portions of the proposed ordinance," he said.

The council will meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday, April 5 in the Carmel Woman's Club, located at Ninth Avenue and San Carlos Street.

Other significant issues facing the council during Mayor Clint Eastwood's final meeting are:

• The consideration of an urgency ordinance amending commercial regulations regarding second-story structures.

Approved earlier this month by the Carmel Planning Commission, the ordinance presents sweeping reforms on allowed second-story construction, according to Howard Nieman, planning commissioner.

Included in the ordinance are measures which sharply reduce second-floor areas, provide a bonus in floor area for businesses that build a courtyard and a portion which says that buildings destroyed by fire can be rebuilt using the previous code.

• An appeal of a planning commission decision which allows the Yellow Cab Co. six permits to operate six cabs in Carmel.

The appeal is being brought before the council by Duane Gida, owner of Joe's Taxi, which so far has been the sole taxi service in Carmel.

"To issue Monterey Yellow Cab six permits for six cabs to pick up in Carmel is not only unnecessary, but would be disastrous to both the owner of Carmel (Joe's) Taxi and the professionals that drive for us," wroter Gida in his appeal. "It would mean that the revenues generated...would be split between 10 cabs, over 20 drivers, and two owners. The simple fact is, that this town is too small to support two cab companies.

Joe's Taxi has been operating in Carmel since 1932.

• The council will consider a resolution that establishes truck delivery zones on the east side of San Carlos Street, between Ocean and Seventh avenues, which would operate Monday through Friday.

The resolution would also create a 20-minute parking zone on the northwest corner of San Carlos Street and Seventh Avenue and authorize automobile parking on weekends and holidays.

• Will consider an ordinance that prohibits skateboarding and bikes in Devendorf Park because the lawn is being destroyed.

• A similar ordinance will also be heard which would prohibit skateboarding on Scenic Road between Ocean and Santa Lucia avenues.

The council will also receive a report from residents of the waterfront area regarding problems with youngsters in that area.

Caution needed during return to Daylight-Saving Time

AS THE nation returns to Daylight-Saving Time on Sunday, April 3, the California State Automobile Association (AAA) advises motorists to use extra caution when driving.

For the second consecutive year, the clock is being moved forward one hour on the first Sunday in April, instead of the last Sunday, to conform with 1986 federal legislation.

CSAA officials suggest that the one-hour time change may contribute toward additional driving hazards.

The CSAA urges motorists to follow these driving suggestions.

• Be sure to turn on headlights if you are driving during the early hours of darkness. And remember to turn off the lights when your reach your destination.

• Watch out for children going to school in the early morning darkness.

• Be prepared for reduced visibility caused by fog, haze, drizzle or other pre-daylight factors.

• Watch out for joggers and other pedestrians, who may be difficult to see in the early daylight hours.

• Wear sunglasses and adjust sun visors properly to combat the glare caused by the sun's early morning reflection on windshield, hood or other metallic car parts.

• It's a good idea to reduce speed if there is sun glare. Drivers may not be able to see the brakelights of a car that is slowing down.

• In the late afternoon, watch out for bicyclists, children and others attracted by the longer daylight hours.

Final elements of general plan revisions on agenda

report continues. "This addition increased the city's allocation...and reduced the city's consumption to 89 percent as of 1988. If all this additional water was used by the city for residential development, 400 additional units could be served."

OTHER SIGNIFICANT issues recognized within the housing element include:

• Addressing the fact that legalizing subordinate units (also known as "second kitchens"), would provide for additional smaller, more affordable housing.

• Transient use of residences reduces the supply of full-time housing units. The inability of the city to effectively regulate and enforce against transient use is another governmental constraint on the housing supply.

• The primary thrust of Carmel's housing needs should be directed toward moderate ($14,130-$21,193) and low-income ($8,832-$14,129) families.

From 1980 to 2000, AMBAG projects 141 additional housing units will be needed in Carmel.

The state Department of Finance says that, in 1986, the city had a total of 3,204 housing units, 80 more than 1980.

"This represents a 2.56 percent increase in housing stock," the report says. "If this trend continues, Carmel can achieve the 1990 projection (3,265) for housing units without additional measures."

THE ARCHITECTURAL-/Cultural/Resources element, formerly called the Significant Buildings element, is not a required element under state law.

The element does not name specific buildings that could fit into this section of the general plan unless they are already listed in the National Register of Historic Places and are under Carmel's sphere of influence.

Instead, the element establishes objectives, policies and guidelines by which specific building and sites may be designated, preserved and enhanced.

Currently the Carmel Mission Basilica and the Robinson Jeffers Tor House are listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

"Culturally significant structures and sites, like architectural resources, are vital to the well-being and survival of Carmel's citizens," the report says. "An understanding of its history helps define and preserve the unique qualities of Carmel."

The element works at strictly defining which buildings may qualify under the ordinance and how they will be affected.

Among the requirements are:

• The building, whether residential or commercial could not lead to increased traffic in residential areas and damage individual property or violate privacy.

• Specific commercial structures may be designated significant to allow them to be reconstructed or restored, if necessary, in a manner consistent with the original building, regardless of their non-conformity with design regulations applicable to adjacent buildings in the same land use district.

• Specific commerical buildings may be reconstructed or be restored in such a manner that retains existing land use non-conformities, including lack of parking or occupancy by land uses not allowed in that district.

• Unacceptable land use impacts might result if a large number of such buildings were absolved of their zoning non-conformities.

• Preservation programs should be voluntary. Even though with a volunteer program certain buildings could lose the qualities that make them significant through alterations or replacement.

• The appropriate process for identifying significant buildings and sites, and the responsibility for the review of designated sites provided for by the creation of a citizens' advisory committee to the Carmel Planning Commission.

Speeding-up your tax returns

To those expecting a tax refund this year, a quick check for accuracy can help speed things up, according to IRS District Director Calvin Esselstrom.

"Carefully prepared, easy-to-read tax returns can be processed much faster, thus expediting that anticipated refund," Esselstrom says.

Once the return is completed, the IRS suggests that taxpayers observe the following guidelines:

• Have you attached all your Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statements?

• Have you attached all the supporting schedules to your Form 1040?

• Have you double-checked your math? And, if you rounded off your numbers, did you do it consistently?

• When you used the Tax Table, did you follow the line across to the correct column for your filing status?

• Did you use the peel-off label and the pre-addressed envelope? (Their use can really speed the processing of your return!)

• Did you sign and date your return? Remember, if it's a joint return, your spouse must also sign.

• Have you kept a copy of your return for your own records?

Taxpayers waiting for Form 1099-INT, usually sent by banks or savings and loans, should note that it is not necessary to attach this form to their completed tax return. All that is required is that the payment information from the 1099 be included on the return.

The most important thing to remember about filing a federal income tax return is to file by April 15. If possible, file even earlier — it has its advantages, says Esselstrom.

ed, the rumors of low morale and dissension in his department started, Kempster said.

Kempster added that he wrote an article in which he interviewed state parks staff members and was unable to find any that felt 'their morale was low."

He said that there could have been some who felt that way, but he was unable to find them.

"From what I could tell, Anderson was doing a good job," Kempster said.

Kempster's recollection about the Rosellini admininstration's controversial political climate was supported by the former UPI Oregon area reporter Douglas Gripp, now a vice president and general manager for The Los Angeles Times-Washington Post news service.

Gripp, who said he knew Anderson on both a professional and social level and also knew him in Washington, D.C., stated that "there was a lot of hardball politicking when Rosellini was governor.

"That was the word we had — that he (Rosellini) was a very political guy," he said.

Gripp said that in Washington, D.C., Anderson was "very highly regared as far as I could tell."

Even non-supporters of Anderson in Oregon stated that Washington state's park and recreation department was in a highly volatile political situation.

The Carmel Pine Cone contacted Howard Martin and Ted McTeigh, both Washington state parks commissioners at the time of Anderson's resignation. Both commissioners were appointed by Rosellini to their former posts.

They denied any politics were involved but said they thought Anderson was doing a very fine job as state park director. But Anderson had gotten a much better job offer from the Department of the Interior in the Bureau of Land Management, they said.

"I thought he did a magnificent job," 82-year-old McTeigh said.

The The Daily Herald in Yakima, Wash. printed an editorial on Aug. 18, 1963 stating that, "(Park) Commissision Chairman James Hovis then (after the announcement of Anderson's resignation), issued a statement that Anderson would stay on two months while a replacement was being sought and added "we (the commissioners) have been familiar with Mr. Anderson's work and have nothing but praise for his professional ability and the departmental program."

The editorial then goes on to ask if the governor wants to make "better political use" of the parks director salary. It also asks, "Why the secrecy about this phase of the public's business from a commission that was once the stormiest and most politically torn in the Rosellini administration?"

Another article in the Eugene, Ore. Eugene Register-Guard Aug. 15, 1963 states, "So politics-ridden is Washington's state parks system that the governor just may be able to persuade the commission to give Anderson the sack. That would be bad — for Washington, which needs Anderson, far more than for Anderson, who can get a better job some other place.

"Washington's state parks system doesn't amount to much, compared with Oregon's and it never will until that state settles down to park business. And it can't do that until it cleans the politics and favoratism out of its department."

From the Kitsap County Herald, Aug. 22, 1963, an editorial states that after Anderson leaves "The chances are that the political appointees in his department will be able to relax again and resume counting the years until pension time. An even more likely probability is that Mr. Anderson's successor, whoever he is, will concentrate more on keeping his head down than on getting things done for Washington's state parks system.

"Clayton Anderson was the third parks director in less than a year at the time of his appointment. He managed to last just 19 months after being selected from a field of 51 applicants. His job, whoever is holding it, will be an interesting one to watch in future months."

Seniors program needs participants

CARMEL POLICE Department's "Seniors Helping Seniors" program has need for two types of seniors: those who would like to help and those who desire help.

According to Cathy Dampier, desk officer, there are seniors who are looking for some type of community involvement to donate their time and others who are lonely, "shut-ins," or are "at-risk" due to medical or physical reasons and desire contact with someone who cares wbout their welfare.

Under the program, senior volunteers call participants of the program by telephone from the Carmel Police Department. If for some reason the recipient doesn't answer the phone, the volunteer alerts the police dispatcher and a patrol unit is sent to check on the participant's welfare. To be effective, calls are made at about the same time every day, Dampier said, but the seniors aren't restricted to their homes. If they plan to be gone, they merely notify the police department in advance.

In addition to the daily phone calls, home visitations, tea parties, and luncheons are also scheduled to "further enhance and improve the quality of our contacts" with those who are shut-ins or at-risk, Dampier said.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer or a recipient of the "Seniors Helping Seniors" program is encouraged to call the Carmel Police Department at 624-6403.

EDITORIAL: LOOK ON THE BRIGHT SIDE

We read of murders, the divorces and the suicides, and we think it over and feel that truly we have fallen upon hard lines. But we fail to remember that where one man or woman applies for a divorce there are ten thousand and more happy men and women married and living the lives of good, clean citizens. Wwhen we read that some poor fool has blown out his tired brains we must remember that there are millions of other men who contemplate no such thing. When we read of a murder now and then we must not forget that millions of peaceful citizens dwell upon the earth and it is because it is out of the ordinary that we read of those who do desperate things.

HITLER'S AUSTRIAN MOVE SUBJECT OF TALK

Mrs. Willis G. White, chairman of the Current Events section of the Carmel Woman's Club, was the speaker at the March 23 meeting. So closely has she followed recent events in Austria that it was a pleasure to hear her review the situation.

Having visited the country, she has well in mind its geographic advantages and rich productiveness; she was graphic in presenting these features. In a word she left no question in anyone's mind as to the cleverness of Hitler's dramatic seizure of the state, which she termed a "marvelous stroke of diplomacy."

WHEN FIRE STRIKES, CIVILIANS TURN FRONTLINE REGULARS

When a fire alarm sounds in the Carmel area, there are 150 men and women ready to answer the call.

Two-thirds of them are volunteer firefighters, either unpaid or given only a small stipend, yet ready around the clock to leave home or work to do what one local fire chief calls "the most dangerous job in America."

Of the five volunteer departments on the peninsula, four are in Carmel and Carmel Valley. They range from the Carmel Fire Department, which is older than the city itself, to the Mid-Valley Fire Department, organized just four years ago. The other local volunteer units are the Carmel Highlands and Carmel Valley Fire Departments.

CV BUSINESSMEN PUSH STREET LIGHT DISTRICT

Carmel Valley businessmen say they have not given up their plans to erect street lights in the village despite a discouraging straw vote at a town hall meeting last week.

The straw vote — a show of hands after a two-hour informational meeting — indicated that villagers present would not mind the formation of an assessment district. But the villagers do not want to be assessed for the erection of street lights.

By a 40-to-15 vote, the crowd said it would rather form an assessment district to help pay for parks, recreation and Little League activities rather than the erection of 43 street lights.

Red Cross sponsors first aid classes

THE CARMEL Red Cross chapter will be sponsoring first aid classes starting in April.

Classes will be held 6-10 p.m. Monday and Wednesday, April 11 and 13; and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 16 at the chapter house, Eighth and Dolores in Carmel.

Classes cover rescue breathing, choking ("Hug for Life"), broken bones, bleeding, poisoning and rescue and transfer to hospital.

The eight-hour classes are $15, certificate issued upon completion. Pre-registration is required.

Caltrans not budging on issue of freeway design

He added that traffic merging onto the freeway from Carmel Valley Road would not have sufficient time to stop, there would still be long lines of traffic travelling north on weekends, and there would be two or three times the number of accidents.

He said that federal regulations call for at least one mile to separate intersections on a freeway, and Rio Road and Carmel Valley Road are only about "1,500 feet" apart.

One resident suggested that the freeway stop at Carmel Valley Road, and that Caltrans abandon plans to reconstruct the Rio Road intersection altogether.

"In our judgment, we've thoroughly solved the problem at Carmel Valley Road and Rio Road," said Pollock, elaborating on the idea of stopping the freeway at Carmel Valley Road, during a telephone interview. "If we were told we had to terminate the freeway at Carmel Valley Road, I'd say 'Why build the freeway at all?'"

Again, Pollock cited safety reasons for Caltrans' decision.

"The accident rate at Rio Road and Highway 1 over the last six years has been 50 percent higher than that experienced at similar intersections statewide," he told the audience at last week's meeting.

During the telephone interview, Pollock said that Caltrans believes that the project already has the blessing of the majority of the community and that most of the people at least week's meeting had been sent invitations by Farr's office, and therefore had previously expressed opposition to parts of the engineering concept. With the final environmental impact statement expected to be released to the public sometime in May or June, Pollock said the project is still moving ahead, with construction slated to begin sometime around 1990.

"We feel that basically the state has made its recommendation and we're just waiting for federal approval," he said. "What I'm hoping will happen is it will be accepted. Then we'll sit down and make it attractive."

Pollock said he expects to open the public forum up for design ideas once the final plans are approved and will seek an additonal $1 million in state funding for landscaping.

"We would look for anything we could do to make it a sleeker, slenderer structure," he said, adding that Highway 220, near San Francisco, is landscaped in a fashion that fits with the terrain.

ALMOST ALL those involved in the discussions agree that delaying construction on the 33-year-old project is a hazardous proposition.

Caltrans' figures indicate that the two-lane road between Ocean Avenue and the Carmel River is one of the most congested roadways in the state.

"Traffic is going to become worse and worse," Farr told the audience. "We're not going to be able to solve this (traffic problems), we're just going to have to cope with it."

Agreeing with Farr was Strasser Kauffman, who addressed the audience as representative of the county.

"It is essential that we have a freeway," she said. "But it's also essential that the freeway fits into the landscaping we have here." She cautioned Caltrans against designing a large bridge across the Carmel River; it should keep in mind that the south side of the river should remain rural.

"The Coastal Commission would have trouble approving a massive bridge going across the river," she said.

It should be noted that during the meetings between Caltrans and Farr, changes have been made at Carpenter Street, through the canyon and Rio Road, where Caltrans has lowered the earth fill.

At Carpenter Street Caltrans has agreed to align the southbound off—ramp with the existing highway, provide a right-hand turn from the ramp to Carpenter Street, and to lower as much as possible the High Meadow structure.

Through the canyon Caltrans has reduced the cut and fill on the slopes, which would save about 5 acres of Monterey pine and reduce the impact on the wetlands.

FEATURING ITALIAN KNITS AND SPORTSWEAR FOR MEN, WOMEN & CHILDREN

To protect & serve Carmel for our future... Paul Laub plans to:

1. Provide the atmosphere for the return of local-oriented business
2. Maintain a high quality commercial district
3. Solve the parking problem

NOT VAGUE PROMISES (see details on opposite page)

PAUL LAUB PLEDGES:

- Push hard for underpasses instead of overpasses at Carpenter and at the mouth of the valley to alleviate current and future traffic congestion and maintain the natural beauty.
- Oppose Toxic waste dumping off our coast
- Relocated underground utilities in residential areas
- Provide additional handicapped-only parking spaces downtown
- Provide a supervised Carmel River State Beach Park Youth Recreation Area as an alternative to the Scenic Drive hangout. Volleyball and basketball nets can be installed. Supervision, so that it doesn't become a nuisance, can come from young people through the Recreation Department. Young people WILL congregation. They need a place at the beach. It is OUR DUTY to provide a suitable one for them.
- Rid the parks of drug trafficking by increasing undercover law enforcement efforts. Our children are being poisoned.
- Hire youths to clean up the beaches — after school, weekends, holidays.
- Simplify government red tape to provide immediate approvals by using pre-approved design styles of commonly-used items such as signs, fences and walkways. The idea is to help people get what they are entitled to in the fastest and easiest way.
- Buy up open space and other properties to DE-develop Carmel and increase the forest feel of our village. Land is becoming more valuable and this is a positive environmental as well as economic action.
- Design a 20-year program that will harmonize the needs of The Village with the effects of the foreseeable population growth in our area. There could well be a giant megalopolis from San Francisco to Salinas. All of those people will love to come to our beaches. He who fails to prepare prepares to fail.
- Insure fair and equal treatment for all citizens, regardless of political pursuasion.
- Promote a cooperative spirit in The Village through "old fashioned barn-raising days" — community projects followed by a Village picnic. Civic improvement can be great fun for its participants.
- Create a Mediation Board to resolve citizen-government disputes rather than lawsuits
- Obtain and retain the best possible police and safety personnel by providing the "CHP" retirement plan. They put their life on the line for us and deserve the best our high quality Village can offer.
- Provide a health plan for volunteer firefighters, who save our village hundreds of thousands of dollars each year as well as property and lives.

PLEASE NOTE: Our Village is very small numerically in the greater Peninsula scheme of things. Clint could do many things for us because of his power. Paul Laub is the only candidate with actual plans and skills to succeed. We need a powerful leader who can provide the necessary leverage.*

VISION

=OUR SUCCESS

The goals of this plan are threefold:

1. To bring back resident-oriented business
2. To eliminate the pollution of overcrowded streets
3. To keep high quality businesses in Carmel-by-the-Sea

- Construct an underground parking structure at Sunset Center with beautiful park on top.

- Make arrangements to use four satellite centers for parking:
  1) Hodges Property (behind Carmel Mission)
  2) Rio Road Caltrans Property
  3) Carmel High School property in summer and holidays.
  4) Underneath the Handley property with park on top.

- (1) Through (3) Satellite parking could be $5.00 per day, which includes unlimited free shuttle transportation to and from the Center of Carmel.

- Class "A" sticker: Standard current resident sticker. Residential areas adjacent to commercial areas: Parked vehicles must have class "A" or "B" permit or guest card obtained upon resident's request.

- Class "B" sticker: Residents of areas immediately adjacent to Carmel Village (we need these local residents to provide an economic base large enough to enable our local-oriented businesses to flourish). From Carmel Hill to the Highlands, including Pebble Beach, pay a higher ($60) fee for six month sticker — 33¢ per day, good for double the posted time.

- Class "C" sticker: May park at Sunset Center or underground Handley property all day. Employees of Carmel Businesses pay $1.00 per day. Employers may pay this for each employee and obtain a tax credit.

- Well-heeled tourists may park downtown all day fora $20 day use sticker.

Stickers will be available at a drive-through kiosk such as seen at Point Lobos. This kiosk may be at the Handley property or other convenient location.

- Overtime or improper parking fees could be in the nature of $35.

Our industry is tourism. The people are going to keep coming. We can control the effects as well as use their willing money to buy the things and conditions we desire and need.

NOTE: This also prepares for the tremendous crush of traffic after Fr. Serra is sainted and Clint's Mission Ranch is "Discovered." The official position of the Catholic Church will be that miracles are caused by Fr. Serra's intervention. The mission may very likely become like Lourdes where many go to pray for miracles. The crush will be tremendous Parking at the Hodges property will be a must.

Jewel of a setting

THE SITE of the Second Annual Les Toques Blanches dinner was The Ridge Restaurant nestled on a hill overlooking the beautiful Carmel Valley. What a jewel of a setting!

When you are given Paul Masson Centennial Cuve Sparkling Wine and realize that Petite Brioche au Caviar and Smoked Salmon are there for starters, you know that the LTB is fulfilling its purpose ("the pursuit of the best"), and that you are in for a feast fit for a king and a queen. And we were.

Although the Monterey LTB Chapter is young, president Remo d'Agliano (Raffaello's, Carmel), said it has grown to around 30 active members with 11 affiliate and associate members. Steve Geving, chair of LTB, Los Angeles, brought wishes from his chapter, from Palm Springs and from London. With the assistance of Bert Cutino, chairman of the Monterey chapter, Mr. Geving conducted a brief ceremony inducting two new members — Michael Clark (Michael's Catering), and Jean Yves Duperret (La Nouvelle Patisserie, San Francisco).

Then came the real purpose of the evening — dining on the superb cuisine prepared by Daniel Barduzzi, chef/owner of The Ridge. We don't like to be cruel, but we list the menu just to let you know what you missed if you weren't there. It read like this...

Wild Duck Ballotine "Fourree au Foie Gras" with Red Currant Berries Sauce (luscious); Clear Potage of Carmel Crayfish; Pave of Halibut with Creamy Julienne of Spring Vegetables (perfection); Pear Liqueur Sorbet and Cabernet Sauvignon Granite; Baron d'Agneu Farci a La Provencale, Tartine d'Ail Doux, Pommes Gaufrette, Farandole de Legumes; Salade Mikado, St. Andre and Stilton Cheese; Croque en Bouche au Trois Parfums (irresistable).

Master Sommelier Fred Dame explained the wines so we were confident that each course was complemented by the perfect selection — Monterey Vineyard Petite Fume and MV Chardonnay Limited Release (both 1986), and MV Cabernet Sauvignon Limited Release 1985.

Mr. Barduzzi came out at the end of the evening and accepted the complete approval of all 52 guests. He presented his assistants and the efficient staff that served.

This was our first visit to The Ridge at Robles Del Rio Lodge but it certainly won't be our last.

THE MONTEREY Wine Festival had a full and exciting day on Tuesday, the day before it closed. The "Go for the Gold" luncheon at Doubletree Inn featured the 1988 U.S. Culinary team which will compete in Frankfurt, Germany in October. The delectable lunch (for 660) is a good indication that they may come away from the "culinary Olympics" (as they are often called), with lots of gold.

From the team were captain Thomas Catherall (Atlanta), Carolyn Claycomb (Columbus, Ohio), Chris Northmore (Boston), Rudolph Spekamp (Finksburg, Md.), Michael Russell (Ann Arbor, Mich.), assisted by Don Woods (Doubletree executive chef), his staff, Robert Brown (Doubletree food & beverage director), and other local chefs.

Slides of dishes were shown on two screens as the luncheon was announced. Mr. Catherall came out two months ago to make up a menu from Monterey food supplies. The sausage was prepared from Carmel Valley wild boar, artichokes (this is the capital, isn't it?), bay seafood, veggies and fruit.

Michael J. Grisanti (president of National Restaurant Association — the sponsor) presented awards to the culinary team and to local chefs who assisted with the "Go for the Gold" lunch.

Bert Cutino (co-owner, Sardine Factory), thanked his luncheon committee — Christine Barrett (manager, La Playa Hotel), Bob Negri (past president, MP Hotel and Restaurant Association), and Don Ferch (president, MP Chefs Association).

After about two deep breaths, the Big Bottle Wine Auction (only one in the country) began with auctioneer Fritz Hatten of Christie's at the selling block. Dr. Richard Peterson announced that the Andre Tchelistcheff Scholarship Fund (from the sale) goes to a UC Davis student for enological and viticultural studies.

THE FINAL evening of the MWF ended with a grand champagne reception and dinner in the Sardine Factory. Barry Larvin, the British Court of Master Sommeliers, presented awards. Tension was felt in the air as the five top finalists waited to find out if they will be able to add M.S. after their names.

Sixteen had accepted the challenge of the exam and only five made it to the awards ceremony. They had just completed three days of study and grueling tests given in three parts: practical restaurant service and salesmanship; the knowledge of the sommelier; and tasting.

We are told by Mary Ross (95th Restaurant, Chicago), who passed the first section with high honors, but not the other two parts, that "the tasting test gets tougher every year because so many new wines are added each year."

Examination certificates were awarded to Mary Ross, Chuck Furuya (Hawaii), Robert T. Kabel (St. Louis), Lawrence N. Stone (Seattle), and Bruno Bonnet. However, standing alone for the cherished honor was Larry Stone (Four Seasons Olympic Hotel), as he received his ribbon and medal as Master Sommelier. The shy, scholarly man was the only one (of 16) to pass all three sections with high honors.

Larry Stone was not the only M.S. at this event. Our own Frederick L. Dame (a M.S. for some years) was there along with the only lady M.S. in the U.S., Madeline Triffon (Detroit), Evan Goldstein (Square One Restaurant, San Fran), the youngest person (at age 26) to pass the rigorous exam and several from the British M.S. Court. Antony Taylor (of the famed 21 Club, the Big Apple), left sick at heart. This was his second try, but there is still hope. The exam may be taken three times, so he has one more shot at it.

The exciting, tension-filled ceremony was followed by an elegant and relaxing dinner given in both the Conservatory and the Wine Cellar. A dinner that only the Sardine Factory could set forth with all the appropriate wines for such dishes as grilled breast of pheasant (under glass), Lingonberry sorbet in individual ice swan carvings with light glowing inside. That's dining in grand style.

Chefs came out after the Manage de Patisserie for a well-deserved round of applause. Executive chef Dan Catanio, Sous Chef Lon Malous and pastry chef Patric Bouard. Craig had kept guests entertained and informed about the music, food and wine. Owners Cutino and Ted Balestreri circulated to extend their special brand of gracious hospitality to each and every guest.

We are fortunate that the NRA has chosen Monterey for the festival for California wines and changing the name from the California to the Monterey Wine Festival is a plus for this magic area.

MWF Vintage '88 was a good year and we look forward to Vintge '89.

AS LONG as we have dining on the mind, here's a reminder that the Masters of Food & Wine is coming up in mid-April, 13th-18th at Highlands Inn. It is the only U.S. event of its kind — bringing international chefs and vintners to join those of the USA. Experts will come from Austria, France and Germany, with one chef returning for this second Annual Masters who just received a three-star Michelin rating.

Caviar connoisseur Christian Petrosian will guide you through the best of caviar, smoked sturgeon, salmon and pate de foie gras; Jeremiah Tower and Robert Mondavi will conduct a cooking lesson and wine talk together. There will be several tours (one to a farm of herbs and edible flowers), wine tastings, seminars, lunches and dinners.

There is one package price or you may buy tickets for separate events. Some are selling out fast. Contact the Highlands Inn.

HARDLY A week goes by that we are not reminded that the Mozart in Monterey Festival is coming up in June. Friday, April 1 there's another "Vintage Mozart" (wine tasting) at the Monterey Sheraton at 5:30 and last Friday — the big splash "Rock Us Amadeus" at the same location.

As guests arrived they were greeted by the champagne music of Carmel pianist Jenny Alexander (RLS sophomore), and sipped aperatifs until they went into the ballroom where tables were set up for the "Rock Us Show." The entertainment opened with the DiFranco Dancers daintily posing ever-so-long in tableaux while gently flapping white fans — due to technical difficulties with the music. It gave the viewers a chance to observe the white wigs, silver necklaces, which were larger than the white bras and briefs they wore, with white/silver stiletto heels and hoops, sans skirts — just flowers, toulle and ribbons. Frank Quilantang himself, also in white with glitter.

The technical difficulties were explained by emcee, KBOQ's (KBACH for the evening anyway) David Wittrock, and the show went on to the delight of all.

Saks Fifth's Yvonne McBride and Elizabeth Modeling's Renee Rolfs presented a fast-paced show of activewear and evening attire. And, after all, in this climate what else does a body need except garb for golf and tennis for these glorious sunny days and glitter-and-glow rags by night for all those wonderful parties, balls, etc.?

ALTHOUGH THE Carmel Bach Festival isn't until summer, sporadic events during the winter months have reminded us that the 51st season is coming soon. This past weekend we had two events Bach-to-Bach, so to speak. The Galleries of the Carmel Art Association was the setting for a Preview Party of the 1988 season.

Greeting Bach supporters were Maestro and Mrs. Sandor Salgo, festival president Anne Fratessa Scoville, v.p. Davis Factor, Jr., Mary Kay Higgins, secretary and Roberta Bialek, treasurer, all from Carmel.

The largest gallery was set up for the preview session given by the Maestro. In the other galleries Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tripp and Dr. Gene England (in dashing F. Scott Fitzgerald attire), set up tables of wine and food for Bach buffs. Sponsors for festival musical chairs are welcome. Take your pick, $250 to $2,000.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON a group known as the Carmel Bach Associates held a "Spring Salon," presenting the New York baritone William Parker in concert in The Church In The Forest. Mr. Parker has sung major roles for the country's regional opera companies and has been soloist with the symphony orchestras of San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Toronto and San Jose as well as giving recitals in Canada, London, Amsterdam, Vienna, West Germany, Paris and Lisbon. His accompanist was pianist and harpsichordist William Armstrong who has an extensive background as a soloist.

A champagne and hors d'oeuvres buffet by Carmel's Katy Curry awaited in Douglas Hall.

THE MUSEUM of Art closed its month-long celebration of food, wine and art by offering a tour of designer kitchens in Pebble. While on the way to the kitchens, ticket holders caught glimpses of marble entrances and stairs, bronze dogs, wooden elephants and antlers as table bases, lots of California white furniture (for those into purity and what's popular), peeks at guests houses the size of most family homes, and stunning gardens.

One former owner, Mrs. Thomas Reiser, designed not only an attractive kitchen (the bronze—colored tiles were gorgeous), but a practical one as well including glass-backed double range and a hidden microwave on pull-out base.

Another owner has a wine cellar off the dining area about the size of two spacious bathrooms. Temperature controlled for the precious bottles neatly stored floor to ceiling. Impressive.

All six kitchens were open sans food. However, Hayward Lumber Co. invited the trekkers to a stop by for refreshments and view their design center. Hayward was a sponsor along with the Pebble Beach Co., Dores and Charles Ford Co.

Mrs. Dirk van der Burch and Mrs. C. E. Spangenberg arranged the event and Mrs. Richard Lord and Mrs. George Rial head the hostess committee. A "thank-you" party was given at La Mirada the following afternoon.

FINALS OF 1988 MONTEREY PENINSULA SAFE DRIVER COMPETITION SET FOR THIS SATURDAY

The finals of the Monterey Peninsula Safe Driver competition will be held at Laguna Seca Raceway this Saturday, April 2. Eighteen boys and girls have advanced through the semi-finals, after successfully competing in the city-street driving portion of this year's event last weekend. The last phase of the competition will be held Saturday at Laguna Seca, beginning at 10 a.m. The final test will consist of a test of precision driving through a variety of obstacle courses.

This event, which is a test of safe driving skills for students who have a valid California Driver's license or an instructor's permit, is being sponsored by the Independent Insurance Agents and Brokers of the Monterey Peninsula, the Jim Russell British School of Motor Racing, and Monterey Nissan-Subaru. Also, many insurance companies and local automobile dealers have given their financial support.

The winning boy and girl will each receive a $1,000 college scholarship. A $500 driving scholarship to the Jim Russell British School of Motor Racing will be awarded to the second place boy and girl. Other prizes will be awarded to the remaining finalists.

This event, first held on the peninsula in 1973, has been proven to be an excellent way to promote safe, sober driving among our youth.

For more information please contact Chairman Matt Allaire, 6 Delfino Place, Carmel Valley, 659-2258; or Event Coordinator Rich Hughett, 885 Abrego Street, Monterey, 373-3720.

Following are the names and schools of those competing in the finals:

Carmel High School: Stephanie Feekes, Shannon Moore, Cindy Nishiguchi, Kurt Shakal, Joey Suwada, and Suzanne Suwada.

Monterey High School: Jeff Shaw and David Wojtkowski.

Pacific Grove High School: Sharif Omer.

Robert Louis Stevenson School: Christopher Bosso, Jeff Knepp, James Pfeiffer, Jeffrey Slabaugh.

Santa Catalina School: Carol Ann Browning, Barbara DiDonato, Anna Huh, Abbi Smith, and Susan Thomas.

AMERICAN LEGION OFFERS FOUR-YEAR SCHOLARSHIPS

Members of the senior classes at Carmel High School and Robert Louis Stevenson School are invited to participate in the competition for a four-year scholarship valued at $2,500 offered by Carmel Post 512, the American Legion, according to Alvin Chapin, chairman of the Charles L. Childers Scholarship Committee.

Candidates for the award must submit the following material to Carmel Post 512, PO Box 512, Carmel, CA 93921, prior to April 30, 1988 to be considered for this year's award:
A. An essay of more than 800 words on a patriotic theme. The 1988 theme is "My Idea of a Good Citizen."
B. A letter of recommendation from the school principal.
C. A copy of the SAT score, or related equivalent.

The winning candidate will be selected on a "best-qualified" basis; however, in the event of a tie, the candidate least qualified financially will be given the award. Bonus points toward selection will be given candidates who are dependents of American Legion members, or of persons eligible for legion membership.

Candidates must be prepared to enroll in a field leading to public service (e.g., education, medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, law, journalism, military or naval science), or a related field approved by the Scholarship Committee. The award will be paid to the college of the winner's choice, but only upon receipt of notice of the student's matriculation. Any unexpended funds are to be returned to Post 512 by the college in the event candidates fail to complete their studies, their failure to pursue a proper course of study, or their failure to pursue a proper course of individual conduct.

DAR HEARS TALK ON POINT LOBOS

Fifty-seven members, prospective members and guests of the Commodore Sloat Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution attended the March luncheon held recently at the Carmel Valley Inn. Mary Coates, chapter regent, was in charge of arrangments.

Following lunch Ruth Jones, second vice regent and program chairman introduced guest speaker Chuck Bancroft, forest ranger at Point Lobos State Reserve. Bancroft's subject was the "peopling" of the Point Lobos area prior to the state acquiring the property in 1933 as well as post-1933. He described the evidences found over time of the various ethnic groups residing there and making a living in assorted ways.

Following the presentation, Jane Holmes, registrar, introduced new members Barbara Blevens, Dorothy Hornus and Jackie Moore. Karen Busic introduced prospective members present: Sally Brandt, Anne Sanford, Zoe Reynolds, Lynne Bynum (also a guest of Ann Linder), Marguerite Persson, Hildegarde Stevenson, Betty Traganza, Mary White and LaDonna Valenti. Guest of Elizabeth Haviside was her daughter Aisha Krechuiak.

Delegates who had attended last month's state conference in Torrance were heard from as they gave their reports. Ruth Jones was elected by the state body of delegates to serve as California State Society registrar for a term of two years. Alida Lehman read excerpts of the speech delivered by the president general of NSDAR, Mrs. Raymond F. Fleck, opening night of the conference. Ruth Tully and Jewel Toepel, also delegates, also said a few words.

Ruth Jones announced that the Sergeant John Emmons Society, Children of the American Revolution, sponsored by the Commodore Sloat Chapter will be led by a new slate of officers for the coming year and that the new president will be Anne Gerken with her mother Eileen Gerken as senior president. Installation of new CAR officers will be in April. Inquiries about CAR may be made through Ruth Jones (372-2261) or Lee Martin (649-8541).

Mary Coates announced a change of location for the next luncheon which will be held in April at the Pacific Grove Community Center. It will be a potluck affair with Mrs. Coates as hostess. Reservations may be made with Elizabeth Haviside (372-2067).

YWCA RECEIVES SUPPORT FROM SOROPTIMISTS

Judy Brooke of the Soroptimist Club International of Carmel Bay presented the YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula with a check for $2,000 to support the Career Bridge Program. Brooke presented the check at the regular meeting of the board of directors on March 21.

The Soroptimist Club International of Carmel Bay ahs been very supportive of YWCA programs in the past and this award coincides with the first annual Tribute to Women in Industry (TWIN) luncheon, a fund-raiser for the YWCA's Career Bridge Program.

CONCERNED SENIOR CITIZENS CLUB RECOGNIZED

The Board of Directors of Monterey Salinas Transit passed a resolution at their March board meeting to recognize the efforts of the Concerned Senior Citizens Club of the Monterey Peninsula. Appreciation was given to the Concerned Seniors for their solid support during the recent expansion of evening bus service.

The Concerned Seniors were instrumental in increasing community awareness of the expanded night bus service. Special thanks were given to Joe Monaghan, club president and member Bill Lonsdale for their specific efforts in helping make the evening bus service a success.

NOMINATIONS BEING ACCEPTED FOR SMALL BUSINESS AWARDS

Nominations are currently being accepted for the second annual Small Business Awards of Excellence, sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce and First National Bank of Monterey County.

Any peninsula business with up to 50 employees is eligible for nomination. The awards will be given to winners in five categories: retail, service, professional, industrial/-manufacturing, and hospitality (restaurant/lodging).

The nomination forms can be picked up Monday through Friday at the chamber office, 380 Alvarado St. in downtown Monterey, and are due by April 5. The awards will be presented at the chamber's "Spotlight on Small Business" celebration to be held at the Hyatt Regency Monterey, May 12, during national Small Business Week.

Among the topics covered on the nomination form are type of ownership (i.e., family owned, sole proprietorship, partnership, etc.), length of time in business, integrity through business practices, community development, and support of small business.

Soroptimist gift

JAMES ROTTER, chairman of the board of the Suicide Prevention Center of Monterey County, received a check for $1,000 from Dolly Koontz of the Finance Committee of the Soroptimist International of Carmel Bay. The donation, raised through volunteer efforts of the Soroptimists, is to be used for training programs for Adolescent Suicide Awareness. (Mac McDonald photo.)

CARMEL STUDENT ADVANCES IN SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

Four York School seniors have advanced to the finalist competition in the National Merit Scholarship Program. The school received notification from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, Evanston, Ill., according to Dr. Henry M. Littlefield, York School Headmaster.

The four finalists are: Mitchell Dyck of Salinas, Joshua RameyRenk of Carmel, Juliette Tanner of Capitola, and David Yellin of Santa Cruz.

Selection of Merit Scholarship winners will be made in March and April, and announced in May.

TOASTMASTERS INSTALL NEW PRESIDENT

Cambrell E. Marshall of Marina has just been installed as president of the Toastmasters Club in Pacific Grove (DLI no. 3824).

Other officers installed were: Jack Shutt (Carmel), educational vice president; Fred Rosenlind (Pacific Grove), administrative vice president; Doris Haywood (Seaside), secretary; Tolly C. Martin (Pacific Grove) treasurer; Kris Franco (Pacific Grove), sergeant at arms.

Marshall extends a warm welcome to all who would increase their skills in communication and leadership. "In a small club such as ours," Marshall said, "opportunities to participate are very frequent.

VETERANS GROUP SEEKS NEW MEMBERS WHO ARE UNAWARE OF POTENTIAL BENEFITS

"Many military veterans are unaware of their eligibility for membership, or that they may be entitled to many educational or financial benefits," says Charles Baker, senior vice-commander and membership chairman of the Disabled American Veterans-Department of California. "We want to do our best to correct this situation and to advise people of how they might be able to join the DAV."

According to Baker, the DAV accepts individuals who were on active duty in any branch of service, (Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force or Coast Guard), and who sustained virtually any injury or disease. The term "injury" is used very broadly, and can mean any type of injury from a broken thumb to the loss of a limb; or a mental disability. The condition must have occurred while in service, during specific years.

"The DAV goes to bat and protects the benefits of all veterans," Baker notes. "We have a full staff, statewide, that assists veterans in such areas as employment, military affairs, application for financial and educational benefits, survivor's benefits and so much more."

Throughout the state of California there are more than 100 local DAV chapters with thousands of members who meet regularly to discuss common problems, and who work together to help other veterans and their families who are less fortunate. California DAV Commander Charles J. Framiglio recently accepted four National membership awards making California the number one DAV state in the nation.

For full information on the DAV and the address and telephone number of the chapter nearest you, call (213) 749-8129. Or write to Membership Information, DAV-Department of California, 1816 So. Figueroa St., Rm. 700, Los Angeles, CA 90015.

ON THE SERVICE FRONT

Airman Allan J. Luczynski, son of Erika J. Foglesong of Pebble Beach, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the college of the Air Force.

He is a 1986 graduate of Valley Christian Academy in Seaside.

WILDLIFE ARTIST Rod Frederick personally called Bernadette Johnson of Vancouver, British Columbia to tell her that she had won his painting, "The Nesting Call," valued at $22,000 (on wall behind him). Frederick had donated the painting to be raffled at GWS Galleries to raise funds for the Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary, which is reintroducing the American bald eagle to the Big Sur area after a 50-year absence. Ironically, the first bald eagles brought to the Big Sur wilderness were from British Columbia. Tickets to the raffle were sold across the country.

REC LEAGUE SOCKO

By Dave Awamleh

Socko openers

THE CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA Recreation Department opened the 1988 Socko season on Sunday, March 27. Games are held on Sunday mornings beginning at 10 a.m. at the Carmel Middle School. The socko league is a co-ed recreation league.

Game No. 1:
RBI's vs. Bell's Bombers (14-2)

In the first game of the Co-Ed Rec Socko League, the RBI's defeated Bell Bombers 14-2. The RBI's were led to victory by the bats of Brian Rabon and Wayne Ming. They drove in 2 and 3 runs respectively. Brian Rabon capped the game with a towering home run. For Bell's Bombers, Matt Hudson had a home run and Mike Lynn had a double.

Game No. 2:
Red Lion Tavern vs. Bully Three (9-7)

In this game, Bully Three came out quickly, scoring five runs in the first inning, but Red Lion hung in there to win 9-7. Bully Three was led by Richard Marig and Jeff Morse, going 2 for 3 and 2 for 2 respectively. The Red Lions were led to victory by Michael Housman, who went 2 for 3. In addition, Keith Fraley had 2 RBIs, but Ronn Olsen's home run put them ahead for good in the sixth inning.

Game No. 3:
California Jammies vs. Jack London's (15-12)

In this exciting contest between the California Jammies and Jack London's there were five home runs hit by the Jammies: by Dave Awamleh, Brian Monahan and Mary Hostetler. But a grand slam by Jim Ramirez in the last inning with two outs won it for the Jammies 15-12. The Jack London's squad played very well and led for half the game. They were led by Mike Montante, who went 3 for 3 with a triple and two RBIs. Also, Paul Little, Steven Whittfield and Jack Moffett went 2 for 3. Whittfield hit the lone home run for Jack London's. Jim Ramirez hit five RBIs for the Jammies.

Game No. 4:
Energizers vs. Ball Busters (17-7)

This game was led early by the Ball Busters, but the Energizers made an impressive come-from-behind victory. The Energizers managed to score 9 runs in the 6th inning in which the 10-run rule came into effect. The Ball Busters won 17-7. The Energizers were led by George Sayre, who went 3 for 3, scored 2 runs and had 5 RBIs.

Pam Flemming went 2 for 3, as did Stewart Chin. Jack Wood also had a home run for the Energizers. For the Ball Busters, John Cozakus led the team, going 3 for 3 with a double and two RBIs. Andy went 3 for 4 with a solo home run. Eddie Holt was 2 for 3 along with Eric Doster, who had a double.

Game No. 5:
Defender's vs Sports Barn (12-9)

In the final game of the day the Sports Barn defeated the Great Scott's Defenders, with a final score of 12 to 9. The Sports Barn team were led to victory by the hitting of Todd Bliesner, who went 3 for 4 with a double and RBI. Also for the Sports Barn, John Abbermonte, Sammy Garcia and Gary Childs went 2 for 3. John Abbermonte also had a double. The Defenders were led by Pete Sherpard and Craig Kurtz going 3 for 4 land 3 for 3 respectively. Sherpard scored four times and Craig Kuntz drove in three runs and had one double. Coach Manny Rodriguez also went 2 for 3 for Great Scott's Defenders.

Pacific Western Bank
Proudly Presents

The Lunch and Learn Series.

Forum Topic: How the SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION Can Help You Finance Your Business.

Pacific Western Bank is pleased to present an exciting, new season of our highly-acclaimed LUNCH AND LEARN SERIES—an informative calendar of noontime forums to help local business people cope with today's ever-changing economic climate.

This month's forum will be held at the:
Rancho Cañada Country Club
Carmel Valley Road
12 noon, April 5, 1988

Forum Topic: How the SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION Can Help You Finance Your Business.
Our featured speaker will be Mr. Tony Valdez, Assistant Director of the SBA's Fresno office — the district under which the Monterey Peninsula falls. Mr. Valdez will present an informative and enlightening discussion on the SBA's government-guaranteed lending programs, their requirements, terms, and conditions. A question and answer period will follow the formal presentation and will be conducted by a panel of business owners to discuss their experiences in receiving SBA loans.

You Needn't be a Pacific Western Bank Customer to Attend.
As a businessperson today, you're well aware of the many challenges facing you when you require financing. Pacific Western Bank is vitally concerned about these needs and offers the LUNCH AND LEARN SERIES as a way in which to share information and keep the local business community abreast of current financial news.

For Reservations:
Our LUNCH AND LEARN will take just over an hour and feature Rancho Cañada's outstanding buffet luncheon. There is a $5 registration fee—lunch included—that will be collected at the door. Call Michelle Reynolds at our Carmel Rancho Office — 626-1075. Seating is limited, so please call Michelle as soon as possible.

If you're unable to attend this forum, watch this newspaper for future programs presented by Pacific Western Bank, your community bank with convenient offices throughout Santa Cruz, Monterey and Santa Clara counties.

KELLY SERVICES DONATES TEMPORARY HELP TO LOCAL NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATIONS

Kelly Services' Monterey-Salinas offices have selected eight local non-profit organizations to receive a total of 64 hours of free temporary help in celebration of Kellyweek 1988, March 13-19. Winners of Kelly's special program include: Childrens Services of Monterey County, YWCA of Monterey, Hospice of Monterey Peninsula, Rape Crisis Center of Monterey, March of Dimes, United Way of Salinas, American Red Cross-Hollister, Meals on Wheels.

Overall, the nation's leading temporary help firm has pledged 27,344 work hours — equal to 13 years of one employee working a 40-hour week — to over 2,600 winning organizations.

"The Monterey County is more than homes and schools and businesses. It's a spirit of cooperation and caring," said Melanie Rolfe, branch manager for Kelly in Monterey & Salinas. "We hope that our donation of free temporary help will assist these local non-profit organizations in their special business of giving. It's our way of thanking our customers, temporary employees and communities for working with us during the year."

The Kelly Monterey office performed a random drawing to select the eight winning organizations from the 25 non-profit organizations that were nominated.

Each winning organization will receive one day of free temporary help. They may redeem this offer anytime before Aug. 15, 1988, selecting temporary help services from the more than 150 job categories that Kelly provides. These include secretarial work, word processing and personal computer assistance, data entry, packing and moving, telephone fundraising support and other services.

ADULT DAY CARE READY FOR NEW CLIENTS

There are openings for enrollment in adult day care programs sponsored by the Visiting Nurse Association and the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District Adult School. They operate two day care services, SHARE (Stroke Handicapped Adult Rehabilitation and Education) and the Alzheimer's Day Care Resource Center. Both programs have room to accept new clients. Anyone interested should call 899-7178 and speak with Ardie Breton, program director.

The SHARE program serves physically handicapped adults, often people who have had a stroke or an external head injury. The clients meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Professionals offer speech therapy, physical therapy and occupational therapy (training in daily living skills). SHARE helps handicapped adults improve their motor skills, communication abilities and promotes independence in daily living activities.

Alzheimer's Day Care Resource Center serves victims of Alzheimer's disease and related dementias. The planned activities provide mental and physical stimulation needed by many people with Alzheimer's.

"Our goal is to help these people function at their highest level and to maintain that level for as long as possible," said Breton. This program operates on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

"It is rare to have space available in our programs. For a long time we've had a waiting list. People just assume the program is full. We need to let everyone know that we're able to accept new clients," said Breton. Both adult day care programs serve a hot noon meal and door-to-door transportation is available. A nominal monthly fee is charged. Call the adult day care center at 899-7178 for more information.

SUSAN McMILLAN NAMED DIRECTOR OF SALES FOR THREE MONTEREY HOTELS

Susan McMillan has been named director of sales for three Monterey hotels: the Monterey Bay Inn, the Spindrift Inn and the Victorian Inn.

McMillan, who has served as assistant manager of the Monterey Bay Inn since April 1987, was recently given her increased responsibilities when the three Cannery Row area properties joined forces under the single management of Coastal Hotel Group last month.

As director of sales, McMillan will be responsible for a central reservations system linking all three hotels, as well as overall marketing and sales of all properties.

Before moving to the Monterey Peninsula a year ago, McMillan was employed as Marketing/Inside Sales Representative for Taarcom, Inc., a Silicon Valley firm representing six major high tech product manufacturers.

McMillan lives in Pebble Beach with her husband John Racanelli, director of marketing and public relations for the Monterey Bay Aquarium.

ORTON DYSLEXIA SOCIETY BRANCH BEING FORMED IN CENTRAL CALIFORNIA

An organization meeting to create a Central California Branch of the Orton Dyslexia Society has been called by acting chairman Marian L. Kirkbride for 10 a.m. Saturday, March 26, in The Gallery at Robert Louis Stevenson School, Pebble Beach.

A film "Dyslexia, the Hidden Handicap" produced by the Grand Rapids, MI Public Schools will be shown, followed by a discussion and formation of a steering committee. Marcia Henry, Ph.D. from Los Gatos, a national vice-president of the society, will be present.

Central California will be the seventh branch in the state, encompassing Fresno, San Benito, and Monterey counties. Large active branches are located in San Diego, Orange County, Los Angeles, Riverside, Santa Barbara, and San Francisco, where the 1987 annual conference was held.

The Orton Dyslexia Society is an international scientific and educational organization based in Baltimore, Md. Since 1949 it has been dedicated to improving understanding of developmental dyslexia (specific language disability), promoting research, sharing knowledge, and encouraging appropriate teacher training. It is open to all professional disciplines and parents.

Kite queen

MARGARET THOMAS, 6, won the award for the smallest kite in the 57th annual Carmel Kite Festival March 26 at Larsen Field, but she couldn't resist grabbing the largest trophy she could possibly find to pose for photographers — could a career in show biz be far behind? Prizes were given in 16 categories, from youth to adults. The event was sponsored by Carmel Host Lions Club and the Carmel Recreation Department. (Chuck Scardina photo.)

Why make life difficult? Register with Selective Service. It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

TAKE MY WORD FOR IT

By D. Patrick Gallagher

It transits the verb farther (up)

GARRY WILLS is doing political analysis for Time. Mr. Wills has one of those impressive academic titles that anyone in such a position ought to have. He is the Henry R. Luce Professor of American Culture and Public Policy at Northwestern University.

Having Mr. Luce's name in his title couldn't have been a bad thing when he was interviewed for the job. Mr. Wills is an accomplished author who has written six books on American presidents. What astounds me in all this is the ever-so-trendy form of writing he has chosen for his political analysis in the magazine. It's as if he had read several old Time magazines from the sixties in preparation for his article.

Long ago, when cigarette manufacturers were allowed to advertise on television, one of them had a slogan, "It travels the smoke farther." This is a solecism of the kind not uncommon in advertising. It shows an absence of knowledge about transitive and intransitive verbs, which most of us handle well even if we don't remember the rules because, if we use them incorrectly, they don't sound right to us. Transitive verbs require direct objects and intransitive verbs do not (many verbs, depending on how they are used, can switch from one to the other). Travel is an intransitive verb, so I travel, you travel, but one doesn't travel something, like smoke. In the same way one wouldn't say, "Don't elucidate me." This is also a transitive verb with me as excess baggage, and the construction is pretentious. Much of this problem owes its origin to a trendy exercise called nouning, which brings us back to Mr. Wills.

For example, he speaks of President Reagan having "intuited" the nation's desire for moral leadership. This transitive verb can be found in all dictionaries, but is it a good choice or is it intellectual salad dressing? Why not "sensed" or, if so inclined, "surmised"? "Intuited" is a product of back-forming or as William Safire calls it, verbification, the art of creating verbs from nouns. One now positions oneself, aborts a pregnancy, and administrates departments (a logical solecism if one accepts to orientate instead of the proper, to orient). The transit authority for verbs will cancel your ticket on all of these lines.

Mr. Wills also speaks of intertwining (entwined?) beliefs that have raveled out. This sort of chicspeak should have died with the 1960s' rap sessions. Why not unraveled? He describes the president as one who has teased up a taste for miracles, and America's children abuzz with libidinous solicitings, and Jack Kemp pining for evanescing gold. The evanescing gold probably belongs to the parents who have to pay the high price of today's solicitings.

To ravel out and to tease up remind me of where it's at. At is often found unnecessarily at the end of sentences that ought to have concluded one word earlier (I wonder where it is at?), but up may be the most overused adverb in the English language. We wake up, start up, fire up, fix up, beat up, clutter up, hurry up, match up and then split up, and finish up where we end up. We dress up and clean up what we mess up or muddy up. We slow up, but we can also slow down, drink up and drink down, all with little if any distinction between the terms.

The adverb serves some purpose when we talk up instead of talk down, settle up and settle down, burn up and burn down, or cut up and cut down. Why must we grow up when growing down would be particularly hard to do? With few exceptions these are occasions up with which we need not put.

It might also be interesting to ask Mr. Wills to define an actual experience and the president's human face. Actual experience is as redundant as certain death and human face is questionable while humanity is still available.

We've talked about redundancies before and the list is nearly endless. Among my favorites are loud shouting, deeply profound, future prospects, different kinds, past history, and there are others. One reader asked (in an unsigned letter), Isn't "etymology of common phrases" a little redundant? No. It isn't even a Big Redundant (see: Etymologies). However, I have not, and probably would not, use the term.

Personally, I like Time and after the first six or seven introductory paragraphs, Mr. Wills writes with considerable clarity. Time-bashing is an honored profession among columnists, however, and I didn't want to be left out.

TAKE DELIVERY OF A VOLVO 760 TURBO FASTER THAN EVER.

The Volvo 760 Turbo is a car worth waiting for. But now, thanks to increased factory production, you don't have to.

In fact, if you visit your Volvo dealer today, you could drive the Volvo 760 Turbo home tomorrow.

And since the 760 is capable of taking you from 0 to 55 in under 8.0 seconds, the trip should be a short one.

But it won't be short on comfort. The 760 Turbo is equipped with the luxury features you'd expect to find in a high performance European Touring Sedan. Luxuries that include a power sunroof, cruise control and automatic climate control.

For great control in handling, the 760 Turbo Sedan is equipped with stabilizer bars front and rear, anti-lock braking and a revolutionary suspension system called Constant Track.

The Volvo 760 Turbo. Now that you don't have to wait, what are you wainting for?

Breaking the rules

Dear Editor:

It was appalling to me that Jim Dougherty (owner of Spencers Gifts and Cards) would apply to the planning commission for a third sign for his store (which is against the policy of the planning commission), yet he claims to be "for Carmel." I don't believe him!

I learned that he had been denied permission to put this latest sign up only last month: by a 7-0 vote of the planning commission.

But Mr. Dougherty reapplied, this time armed with a petition signed by 200 people and a different color sign. In looking at the petition, at least half of those who signed it are non-residents, as is Mr. Dougherty. Mr. Dougherty seems to think that petitions make it OK for the city to make exceptions, to break our rules and create, in effect, two classes of people: those who work hard and follow the rules, and those who demand that the rules be changed. Well, I have had enough of breaking the rules.

The petition says in part: "Spencers Stationery is requesting from the City of Carmel, the flexibility of granting us an additional sign." Using the word "flexibility" is misleading; it means, once again, "break the rules for me." It's that simple.

How much more of Mr. Dougherty and his shenanigans does Carmel-by-the-Sea have to endure? Thank goodness this time the entire planning commission said NO (except for Ken White, who voted to make another exception for Mr. Dougherty).

But the record is clear: Mr. Dougherty has a history of demanding special favors. He even paid for an advertisement in the Pine Cone (March 24) for the sole purpose of attacking two planning commissioners who voted to defend our village ordinances against attack by Mr. Dougherty.

Well, I don't like personal attacks against anyone. And especially against two dedicated, hard-working residents. Commissioners Howard Nieman and Carla Ramsey have fought to maintain the residential character of our village. They have fought against expanding the business district. They have argued for equal and fair treatment.

But, Mr. Dougherty doesn't support equal treatment. That's why he feels the need to attack others. He can't accept that those who are entrusted with the responsibility to make planning decisions must look at the big picture, and represent the whole community. Not special interests.

As a former chairman of the Carmel Planning Commission, I support Howard Nieman and Carla Ramsey. I support their vision, their leadership and their courage to vote their conscience, and to represent and defend the interests of each and every person in the village.

To Mr. Dougherty, I say: You should be ashamed of yourself!

Dorothea Roberts

Sour grapes

Dear Editor:

I was disgusted to read a "sour grapes" advertisement by Mr. Jim Dougherty (of Spencers Gift Shop), which personally attacks Planning Commissioners Howard Nieman and Carla Ramsey. I dislike seeing someone carry a grudge. Mr. Dougherty is angry because they voted to apply city codes to Mr. Dougherty's gift shop while he sought numerous changes and waivers from following the same codes you and I must follow, and do follow.

Mr. Dougherty's message is simple: Give me what I want. He has used the Spencers name as a club to win sympathy from residents and city officials. He has intimidated people by implying that unless the city sacrificed its standards, we would "lose" Spencers. How odd, considering that Mr. Dougherty sold (for a big profit), his lease on Ocean Avenue to another clothing store! And we havemore than 140 clothing-type stores in town already.

The building he bought was not zoned for his use. So he asked the city to change the zoning code to suit his needs. And they did.

Next, he applied to use the second floor (because the first floor was not big enough to make it "viable"), for retail. No other store can use a second floor for retail. But Mr. Dougherty can.

Commissioners Nieman and Ramsey argued that why should Mr. Dougherty be allowed to do something that other resident-oriented stores can't?; why is he special? In my mind, he isn't.

Let's face it; everyone in town could benefit from waiving some provision of the code. But we don't ask for special favors. I suppose I could, but if everyone did then, why have a code. Why have city government? Where would the exceptions end? The answer is they would never end, and Carmel-by-the-Sea would cease to be the special place it is. It would be another Los Angeles!

And what impacts did Mr. Dougherty's "exceptions" have on our village? The city council expanded the size of the commercial district by allowing retail on second floors. Another apartment in the business district was lost to retail. They increased the floor area of an existing commercial building. In other words, they did just the opposite of what the majority of residents ask of city hall: to keep the commercial district from growing. To keep our village residential.

Commissioners Nieman and Ramsey voted against these impacts; they voted to require Mr. Dougherty to follow the same rules as every other business and resident in town. Nothing more, nothing less.

Mr. Dougherty states: "It takes self-confidence and courage to know when to make an exception to a rule." It also takes great courage to say no! It takes courage to defend the principles which have nurtured our village for moe than 70 years.

The Carmel Residents Association agreed. They stated in a flier regarding Mr. Dougherty's project: "Second-floor retail operations are prohibited throughout the commercial districts. We oppose legislation that will further weaken our basic protection against commercial intensification!"

In closing, the cheap shot Mr. Dougherty fired at Commissioners Nieman and Ramsey is not the type of conduct we need in Carmel. Mr. Dougherty's tactics are a disgrace.

And as I stated before the council relative to this matter: what you do for one you do for everyone!

Phyllis E. Howard

UnCarmel-like tactics

Dear Editor:

Approximately a year ago the Northeast Carmel Neighbors Association was formed by a group of interested residents of the area, spearheaded by Linda and Clayton Anderson. At that time the new group was met with interest and enthusiasm.

Clint Eastwood's term as mayor, with positive and forward-moving actions, has brought renewed community spirit and civic awareness to the Carmel residents and businesspeople alike. I can't help but feel that this revived community spirit was instrumental in the initial success of this new association.

Unfortunately, in recent weeks the association has been harshly divided by former association president Anderson's decision to run for the office of mayor of Carmel. There are those of us in the group who have become dismayed and embarassed by Mr. Anderson's rash promises to our senior citizens, exaggerated information as to his actual civic activities in our community, and, at times, public misrepresentation of the wishes of the association's membership. I sincerely feel that by using these "unCarmel-like" tactics Mr. Anderson has shown that in his four years of residency he has not yet learned what kind of a community Carmel really is.

Even though I'm a member of Northeast Carmel Neighbors Association, I feel free to make my own political choices. In the 10 years Jean Grace has been involved in Carmel community service, she has acquired an excellent understanding of the interests and desires of the residents as well as the business community. Jean Grace has always shown great integrity in her participation in community service. Therefore, I heartily endorse Jean Grace for the office of mayor of the city of Carmel.

I am a lifelong resident of Carmel with two daughters and their families residing in Carmel.

I want the very best for my town — Jean Grace is the very best!

OBITUARIES

Elizabeth Harrison

Memorial services took place at the time of inurnment at the Ellis Cemetery in Ellis, Kan., for Elizabeth Barbara Harrison, a Carmel resident for the past 24 years, who died Feb. 27 at the Carmel Convalescent Hospital. She was 77.

Born June 29, 1910 in Ellis, Kan., she was a homemaker, a member of All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel and a volunteer for the American Red Cross Blood Bank.

Survivors include two sons, Lt. Col. John Harrison of Citrus Heights and Sam Harrison of Pebble Beach; a daughter, Joan Marsh of Carmel Valley; a brother Frank Erbert of Kansas; and three sisters, Caroline Niernberger, Viola Erbert and Doris Westhusin, all of Kansas; and six grandchildren.

Her husband, Samuel H., died in 1984.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the donor's favorite charity.

O. Richey Blanton

Private services took place Mar. 5 for O. Richey Blanton of Pebble Beach who died Mar. 2 at his home. He was 70.

Born Feb. 11, 1918 in Ironton, Ohio, he lived on the Monterey Peninsula for more than two decades. He worked for 20 years with Stanford University, serving in the capacity of deputy director of purchasing for 11 years and then for nine years as the business manager at the Hopkins Marine Station in Pacific Grove. He retired from that post in 1983.

He was a career Naval officer, retiring from the military in 1962 with the rank of commander. He served his last duty at the Naval Postgraduate School.

He served in World War II and was awarded numerous medals, including the Victory Medal, China Service Medal and the National Defense Service Medal.

He was a member of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club and the Stanford Alumni Association.

Survivors include his wife, Jane; a son, Mitchell of Bellingham, Wash.; a daughter, Darrah of Carmel; and four granddaughters.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Visiting Nurses Association or the donor's favorite charity.

Mildred D. Wollot

Cremation, followed by scattering of ashes at sea, took place for Mildred D. Wollet, a resident of Carmel for 25 years, who died March 20 at the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 78.

Born March 18, 1910 in Sacramento, she was a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and received a master's degree at Mills College. She taught at the College of Marin in Kentfield for 10 years. As a retired teacher she spent her years in volunteer work with the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula, and served on the board of directors for SPCA. She had been a member of the Carmel Foundation since 1966.

Survivors include her very close friend, Violet Hoare of Carmel, and a cousin, Raverna Richards of Richmond.

At her request, no services took place. The California Cremation Society was in charge of arrangements.

Memorial contributions may be sent to the Carmel Foundation, SPCA or to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Otto Baumgarth

Graveside services took place March 18 at the Montrose Cemetery in Chicago for Otto Baumgarth, a Carmel resident for the past 26 years, who died March 13 at Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital. He was 97.

Born Dec. 10, 1890 in Chicago, Ill., he worked for the city of Chicago for 40 years.

Survivors include a son, LeRoy Baumgarth of Genoa, Nev.; a daughter, Leota Heshmati of Santa Cruz; and three grandchildren.

His wife, Elsbeth, died in January 1978.

The family suggests memorial contributions to American Heart Association, 10 San Miguel Ave., Salinas 93901, or the Salvation Army, 1491 Contra Costa St., Seaside, 93955.

Frank Kerr Hays

Private family services and cremation took place for Frank Kerr Hays of Carmel, a retired bank executive and World War I fighter pilot, who died Feb. 29 at his home. He was 91.

Born Nov. 3, 1896 in Louisville, Ky., he retired as executive vice president of Lake Shore National Bank in Chicago in 1961 and moved to Carmel 25 years ago.

He was a fighter ace serving with the 13th Aero Squadron of the American Expeditionary Force during World War I and was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross.

He was a member of the Order of Daedalians, the American Fighter Aces and World War I Overseas Flyers associations.

Survivors include his wife, Beulah; a daughter, Joyce of Carmel; a son, Steven of Sonora; two grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements. Inurnment will take place at a later date at Arlington National Cemetery.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the donor's favorite charity.

Allen Graham

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel By-the-Sea, for Allen Graham of Carmel Valley, a retired U.S. Civil Service worker, who died March 1 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital. He was 76.

Born Oct. 24, 1911 in Omaha, Neb., he lived in Monterey and Carmel Valley since 1948.

He served in the Army from 1929 to 1932 at the Presidio of Monterey, and was a Navy veteran of World War II.

He was the author of short stories published in the 1930s and '40s, and was active in Little Theater in Monterey in the 1950s and '60s.

Mr. Graham is survived by a brother, Richard of Daly City.

Ashes were scattered at sea. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

The road to good intentions

Mar. 25, 1982

Gilbert Kerth Chesterton is a favorite of mine, a brilliant English writer, wit, philosopher and Christian apologist. He had a monumental brain but in practical matters, he had the short memory of the proverbial absent-minded professor. One morning, he left his home in Beaconsfield, Buckinghamshire, to give an evening lecture. At noon, he wired his wife, "I am at Bishop's Stortsford in Hertforshire. Where am I supposed to be?" She wired back, "home." Then she told her housekeeper that it would be easier to get him home from Bishop's Stortsford, than it would be to get him from there to where he was supposed to be.

If Chesterton was alive today, he no doubt would tell us that as good men and as Rotarians, we need to come home to have moral principles and then set out in a better direction.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

According to the federal government - sponsored National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey, the rate of diabetes increases with age, from 2.0 percent between ages 22 and 44 to 17.7 percent between ages 65 and 74. Moreover, of the estimated 6.6 percent of Americans who have diabetes, fully half have not been diagnosed. This is good reason to have regular, thorough checkups by your physician.

"You don't have to be lean and fit and young to gain health benefits from exercise," says William Haskell, Ph.D., associate director of Stanford University Center for Research in Disease Prevention. "We have to remind people that getting out for a brisk walk is a very healthy thing to do." Many in the medical community now believe that "moderate" exercise provides all the benefits of more vigorous activity, without the risk of injury. Today, the gentler sports of walking, swimming, freshwater fishing and bicycling are most popular among older persons.

PROPHECY CORNER

By Phil Lunsford

In the last article, dated March 24th, I explained that the "New Age Movement" contains the aspects to fulfill the apostate church (false church) during the tribulation.

In this article I wanted to deal with the fact that all church denominations have members that aren't true believers of Jesus Christ. When the Lord returns to receive His true believers unto Himself, the other denominational members, sad to say will be left on earth to experience the horrors of the tribulation.

The evidence of this is found in Revelation, Chapters 2 and 3. As I have previously explained, when the Lord appeared to the apostle John and gave John the vision of the tribulation, the Lord told John to write letters to the seven churches in Asia.

The Lord had admonitions of warnings to all the churches except to the church of Philadelphia, which I believe represents all true believers of Jesus Christ throughout church history. To the first church, the church at Ephesus, the Lord said that church had left their "first love" (Jesus). To the second church, the Smyrna church, the Lord said they would "have tribulation for 10 days." The Smyrna church did in fact suffer for the span, of the edicts of the 10 caesars, during the third century A.D. The Lord's admonition to them was to be "faithful unto death."

To the third church, the Pergamum church, the Lord told them they had become worldly and were "sacrificing to idols." This church was a compromising church into false worship. The Lord told them to repent or He would come upon them quickly and would fight against them. To the fourth church, the church at Thyatira, the Lord said they also had fallen into false worship and had eaten things sacrificed to idols.

To the fifth church, the church at Sardis, the Lord told them he hadn't found their works "perfect" (mature). The Lord told them that some of them had defiled their garments, which basically means they had turned from the truth of the gospel. As I stated before, the Lord didn't have any complaints about the church at Philadelphia. To the seventh church, the church at Laodicea, the Lord told them that they had become lukewarm or apathetic towards serving Him. The Laodicean church had become very rich and felt they were in need of nothing, including the Lord. The Lord's admonition to the Laodiceans was to repent or He would reject them.

The letters to the seven churches in Asia not only applied to them individually, but the negative aspects those churches contained are contained in the present day denominational world. The Lord's admonition to the denominations of today is to repent or He will come as a thief in the night.

I believe those that do not repent will be left for the tribulation and some will become part of the New Age System. Contact me at P.O. Box 3504 Carmel, 93921.

Flutist, soprano team for a benefit concert

FLUTIST JULIUS Baker and Norma Jean Hodges, soprano, will present a recital at Sunset Theater in Carmel at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 5. The recital is a benefit performance for the Carmel Music Society. It is an addition to the Society's regular season and is not included in the price of the season tickets.

Julius Baker performs here often and is well-known on the Monterey Peninsula. He is on the faculty of the Julliard School of Music and the Curtis Institute of Music, his alma mater. After graduating from Curtis, Baker returned to his home town to play in the Cleveland Symphony under Artur Rodzinski. Later he became solo flutist for the Pittsburgh Symphony under Fritz Reiner and then for the Columbia Broadcasting Symphony.

He has also been solo flutist for the Chicago Symphony and the New York Philharmonic. Since 1983, he has concentrated on teaching and on solo performances and chamber music. He is probably best known here for his teaching and performances at Hidden Valley. Baker has recorded for RCA Victor, Decca, Vanguard, Westminster, Desmar and Vox Cum Laude. More recently he has recorded on the Laurel and Fanfare labels.

Norma Jean Hodges, soprano, is a graduate of the Northwestern University School of Music and now makes her home in Carmel. She too is familiar to peninsula music lovers for her many solo performances with the Carmel Bach Festival, the Monterey County and Monterey Bay Symphonies, I Cantori and at a great variety of civic events. Hodges has also appeared with the Sacramento Symphony, the Los Angeles and San Francisco Light Operas, and in concert and recital throughout the United States.

NORMA JEAN HODGES
Soprano

Their program will provide a variety of flute-with-voice numbers, solo voice and solo flute. Hodges will sing three "willow songs" by Barber, Verdi and an anonymous composer. Baker will play the Suite for Flute by Widor and the first half of Mozart's Flute Sonata, Opus 13. Together they will perform Berlioz' L'ile inconnue, arias by Bach, Saint-Saens and Ravel, and Schubert's Der Hirt auf dem Felsen.

The recital is the first of two additions to the society's regular season which are not included in the price of the season tickets. The second special performance will feature soprano Marvis Martin on May 7, also at Carmel's Sunset Cultural Center. Members of the Carmel Music Society may obtain tickets for both events through the society.

Reserved seat tickets may also be purchased at Center Stage Ticketing, 467 Alvarado St., Monterey; Bartlett Music, Dolores and Fifth Avenue, Carmel; and at the Do Re Mi Music shop in The Barnyard, Carmel.

Seats will also be available at the box office on the evening of the performance. All seats are $12.

Carmel Music Society names winners of vocal competition

THE WINNERS of the Carmel Music Society annual competition for California musicians were announced the evening of March 19 by Ruth Stuckey, competition chairman, and prizes were awarded by the Society's President, Dan Klein, at Sunset Center. The competition, which was for vocalists this year, was held during the day and ended with an evening recital at which the three top winners performed. A reception in Carpenter Hall followed the reception.

Grand prize winner was basso Derek Anthony of Santa Barbara. Anthony, a native of South Africa but raised in Norway, is 30. He studied in Venice with Otto Edelmann. Anthony received a prize of $1,500 and will return to Carmel to perform on Saturday, April 1, 1989, as a part of next year's Carmel Music Society concert series.

Second prize, $750, went to baritone Matthew Cary, 27, of Costa Mesa. Cary was born in Greenwich, Conn. He received his Bachelor of Music at Oberlin Conservatory and Master of Music at the University of Michigan.

The third prize, $500, was awarded to mezzo-soprano Allison Swenson, 27, of San Francisco. A native of Santa Rosa and a graduate of the University of Southern California, Swensen is currently a special student and teaching assistant at the San Francisco Conservatory.

They were selected from 50 competitors who submitted tapes. The tapes had been screened, and the eight finalists selected, by a panel consisting of Sal Ferrantelli, vocal director at Monterey Peninsula College; Shirley Hubbard, Monterey; and Susan Gallaher, Pacific Grove.

Judges for the live competition were David Rohrbaugh, music director of the San Jose Opera; Priscilla Salgo, vocal director of the Bach Festival; and Vahe Aslanian, retired professor of voice at Hartnell College.

Accompanist for five of the finalists was Camille Olaeta of the Monterey Peninsula College Music Department. Two others were accompanied by Brent McMunn of Santa Barbara and one by Dale Cutler of Petaluma.

The 1988 competition was supported in part by the Marshall Steel, Sr. Foundation.

Next year's competition, which is for California musicians ages 18 to 30, will be devoted to pianists and will be held on March 11, 1989.

For information, write the Carmel Music Society, P.O. Box 144, Carmel, CA 93921.

Underwater photography taught

The lite workshop series sponsored by the Photographic Center of the Monterey Peninsula continues with a four-hour session titled "Introduction to Underwater Photography."

Leon Garden, a diver with more than 30 years' experience, says that participants will be exposed to possibilities of underwater photography and receive sufficient information from this workshop to know where to dive locally and what equipment to use.

Guest lecturers include Art Haseltine, a marine biologist, who will show his portfolio and discuss his approach to black-and-white underwater portraits. Al Huelga, the owner of Aquarius Dive Shops, will present underwater equipment.

Ed Cooper, the owner of Waterline Publications, will discuss the local Monterey diving sites. Lovell Langstroth, a researcher, author and photographer of marine life, will discuss his approach to photographing underwater for color printing.

Glenn Pollack, an underwater photography instructor, will present several techniques including available light, macro and wide-angle lenses.

Leon Garden will offer information on how to enter competitions both locally and nationally plus how to create a multiprojector slide show.

The date of the workshop is April 9. Fee is $35.

For further information contact the Photographic Center, P.O. Box 1100, Carmel, CA 93921, or call 625-5181.

LEON GARDEN photographed "Joanne" in the Santa Barbara Channel Islands. He will lead one of the photographic sessions that will focus on underwater photography. For information about this program, call the Monterey Peninsula Photographic Workshops at 625-5181.

Jungian principles pursued

HOW IT IS that the "repressed feminine" makes itself known in obesity, anorexia nervosa and related maladies is the topic for discussion at a meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C.G. Jung. The program will begin at 7 p.m. Friday, April 1 at All Saints' Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel. The text of the book titled The Owl was a Baker's Daughter, by Marion Woodman, a Jungian Analyst practicing in Toronto, Canada provides the information for a review and discussion to be led by Joseph Pagano of Monterey, Nancy L. Bernhard and Marilyn Sanders both of Carmel Valley.

Earlier reviews of the book have said that the author gives "...eye-opening insights of relationship between the individuation process of a woman and the state of her body...eating disorders often are purposeful symptoms with meaning. Also, it includes practical procedures to enable a woman to hear her bodily symptoms as symbolic representations worth exploring because they lead to an understanding of how her instinctive femininity has been wounded...Especially interesting for a sense of the Earth mother and its recognition of the feminine principle in the Holy Spirit."

A support group composed of both men and women may be formed as the result of this discussion and those to be held based on Woodman's other writings with a related focus. Participants at this meeting will be able to help plan future ones.

The public is invited to this and other meetings of the Friends of C.G. Jung, which is an informal group of people who share an enthusiasm for the seminal ideas of the famous Swiss physician, philosopher, author.

Group size is limited; inquiries are invited; a donation is suggested. Call or write 649-8809; 853 Pacific St., Monterey.

ON STAGE

Ol' Syncopation

Ol' Syncopation, an original musical revue created and directed by Leo Cortez with arrangements by Stephen Tosh, opens Thursday, March 31 at The Western Stage.

"Because the show features the music of the '40s ... with upbeat syncopating rhythms ... we're dedicating our lively production to grandparents everywhere," notes Cortez.

Tickets for evening performances are $13 with discounts for seniors and children under 12. Tickets for the matinee are $11.

Ol' Syncopation plays at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 31-April 2. The matinee will be offered at 2 p.m. Saturday, April 2. All will be presented in the Environmental Theater at Hartnell College, located at 156 Homestead Ave. (off West Alisal Street) in Salinas.

For reservations call 375-2111, 758-1221 or 649-5561.

Borderline

Borderline, a dramatic reading exploring alcoholism, personal transformation and recovery in the lives of three women, will be presented for one final performance at The Cherry Foundation.

Created, written and directed by Monterey writer Debra Ehrmann, the 90-minute production will be staged Thursday, March 31.

Borderline traces the lives of three women — Iris (Laura Cook), her daughter Mella (Jessica Wheelis), and her granddaughter Katie (Billie Arnold).

The recovery process is delineated in Ehrmann's script, placing the three women at the play's conclusion on the "borderline of knowing the truth about themselves and each other."

Cherry Hall is at Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel. Curtain is at 8 p.m. For information or reservations, call 624-7491.

Ireland Rising

Ireland Rising, Dan Gotch's adaptation of Irish literature with music, concludes its run this week at Cherry Hall in Carmel. It is a production of The Poetic Drama Institute, now a program of GroveMont Theater Outreach.

Based on writings of W.B. Yeats, Jonathan Swift, Edna O'Brien, Patrick Pearse, Sean O'Casey and others, Ireland Rising traces the Irish rebellion against the British over a three century period. Integrated with this theatrical exploration of Ireland will be live Irish music by Sheebeggan, a duo consisting of Brid Caveney and Stephen Felts.

Actors appearing in the production are Stephen Canepa, Jim Jensen, Mary Looram and Ann Mattingly.

Ireland Rising will play at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 1-2. General admission is $6, $4 for students, senior citizens and the military. For advance tickets call 649-5561. For reservations call 624-7491. Cherry Hall is at Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel.

The Fort Ord Cabaret Theatre continues its production of the musical, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.. Based on the plays of Plautus and set in circa 200 B.C. Rome, the musical is also a modern burlesque, a farce that evokes "comedy tonight."

The production stars Michael Cheak, director of the Cabaret Theatre, in his first role in a musical since leaving New York. Also featured are Jim Sutty as Hysterium, frantic head slave and snitch; Conni Ross as Domina, a comically overbearing wife and mother; and Rick Domras as Senex, a dominated dopey dad.

A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum will be staged at 8 p.m. Fridays through Sundays until April 9.

Ticket prices are $6 general admission and $5 military. The theater is located on the corner of Fourth Street and Fourth Avenue, Building 1288. For information or reservations call 242-6337 or 649-5561.

The Mollusk

A woman who tries to live her life without doing anything, using her ingenuity to manipulate people to wait on her hand and foot, is the subject of The Mollusk. This 19th century English comedy opens Friday, April 1 and plays Fridays and Saturdays through May at California's First Theatre.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. at the historic theater located on Pacific Street at Scott in Monterey.

Tickets are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and teens and $4 for children 12 and younger. For information, call 375-4916.

'As You Like It' auditions set

Auditions for the Forest Theatre Guild staging of Shakespeare's As You Like It will begin at 4 p.m. both Friday and Saturday, April 1-2. Keith Decker directs the comedy, which will be staged July 7 through 24 at Carmel's historic Outdoor Forest Theater.

All parts are open. The auditions will take place at the theater, which is at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel.

'Our Town' auditions planned

Thornton Wilder's Our Town will open the summer season at the outdoor Forest Theatre in Carmel with Cole Weston directing.

Auditions will take place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, April 2 at the theater located at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea. All roles are open, including non-speaking parts. Young men, ages 11 to 20, are especially needed.

Our Town is scheduled to open on June 16 and run through July 3.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Certain synchronicity

OUR TWIN subjects right now: Gil Evans and the Hispanic principle called sol y sombra. I must begin by noticing a certain order in events. Synchronicity, some say.

First, Gil went to Mexico to die. With all due respect for such as Oliver Nelson and Ralph Burns, Gil Evans must be remembered as the most seminal jazz arranger of his time. He made it to Cuernavaca following serious surgery. The end was announced on March 21 in Manhattan by wife Anita. The genius gentleman was 75.

Synchronicity. Just a few weeks before Gil's last breath went up — and his soul followed — old friend and colleague Miles Davis released a new album on the Warner Brothers label. Miles and composer Marcus Miller dedicated that package "to Gil Evans — the master." It's moody, fulgent, searching music for the Siesta film with Ellen Barkin, Julian Sands, Isabella Rossellini. One five-part theme centers on wandering lost in Madrid — very much a reference to the dusky shine achieved by Gil/Miles in their Sketches of Spain collaboration.

Sol y sombra. How to say it? Bright fish flashing through dark green waters. The term comes from the bullring's shady and sunny sides (seats in sun rows go for cheaper) — and long ago was appropriated by poetic philosophers to indicate mysterious melding of opposites like dark/light and pain/joy. This ain't ivory tower stuff. Anyone who has wept over beauty knows the living fact if not the specific lingo. And the irritating fun of a loose tooth? Sol y sombra.

A particularly accurate example of same comes from novelist Don Asher. Describing a suite for solo jazz piano by the late Hampton Hawes: "...Andalusian sorrow and fervor...the mood of a matador stepping into the ring on a doomed, too-bright day." Don knows this thing — and so his biography of Hamp Hawes remains a major American document.

All the above points back to Gil Evans because he discovered the very sound of sol y sombra. He wore duende like a coat of many colors — the hard wonder of saying the unsayable. And the self-taught keyboardist from Stockton changed jazz orchestration forever when he brought in tuba (among other instruments new in that context) to communicate the textures and tensions he heard in his head.

Gil's relatively alone — breakthrough artists often are as regards wholeness of his vision. One must check out another discipline to find someone of equally compelling voice. Maybe St. John of the Cross, 16th century Spanish mystic whose poetry reveals the dark night that opens into the radiance of Godhead ("infused prayer"). Certainly Gabriela Mistral, Nobel-winning Chilean poet whose glowing work fought off immense private tragedy.

Sol y sombra. At one extreme, the mythic Night Journey: Jonah in the whale's guts. Only the best of the best ever get that far — Django Reinhardt, Louis Armstrong, Charles Parker, Duke, Lady Day, John Coltrane. Tadd Dameron found it. Eric Dolphy also. Alto saxist Frank Morgan has it — the pain and the beauty stated concurrently, without gasp or gap — in everything he plays. Donald Byrd. Irene Kral. Hamp Hawes. Probably Carla Bley. The haunting/triumphal charts of Benny Golson. Miles himself.

Miles reacted to Gil's death by saying: "He never wasted a melody. He never wasted a phrase. He and Duke Ellington changed the whole sound. Students will discover him. They'll have to take his music apart layer by layer. That's how they'll know what kind of genius he was."

Whenever Gil got it, he followed it to Mexico, and gave up the ghost.

Anita Evans: "He was writing up until the end. We've got a couple hundred years of music left behind. We'll keep the music going."

NOTEBOOK CHUNKS:

• Despite the leg infection that hospitalized him, Miles Davis will make the April 18 gig at San Francisco's War Memorial Opera House. The Bill Graham organization referred questions to co-producer Larry Bailey in Southern California; Bailey's staff insisted the concert "definitely" would go on "as announced." Ticket info and reservations: 998-BASS.

Meanwhile, reedman Gerald Albright — special guest on the date — calls himself a "groove" player who was inspired by saxist Maceo Parker of the James Brown company.

• Fine pianist Bobby Phillips has begun an open-ended series of Jazz Brunch sessions from noon till three on Sunday at La Provence Restaurant, 105 Ocean View Blvd., Pacific Grove. Duos and trios with Bob always playing and booking. So far Kenny Stahl (flute) and Brad Terry (clarinet) have worked with him. Special time slot for Easter Sunday only — 11-4.

• Thursday (3/31) will mark my last weekday show for KRML Jazz Radio. Lots of writing stacked up — three books at varying stages. It'll be my big fun to keep doing the Saturday Jazz Tides from six till noon. Weekday replacement: Dottie Reed. She's a knockout human being — much experienced radio hand (Miami, New England) who worked with the likes of Stan Getz and Benny Goodman during her years as a jazz vocalist. My old pal Bill Greenwell has returned to 1410 a.m. — 8 p.m. till midnight Saturdays.

• Jimmy Lyons says Monterey Jazz Festival 1988 will go back to a former practice that he likes very much — between-acts music. Pianist Jan Deneau will work in that manner on one of the arena concert nights; other names to be announced.

• Drummer Dannie Richmond was hit by a fatal heart attack in New York. Age 52. Pianist John Donaldson saw Dannie do a Santa Cruz gig just a handful of nights ago: "He looked and played so young —"

• Monterey County Symphony's new season includes Dave Brubeck (Sept. 24) and George Shearing (April 15 of next year). Tickets for these events will be sold apart from the subscription series. Contact the symphony office at Sunset Center.

• At the Kuumbwa Jazz Center in Santa Cruz: John Cortes Quartet with John Donaldson on Friday (4/1 — $3) and the Bobby Hutcherson Quartet on Monday (4/4 — $11). Both kick off at 8 p.m.

Easter Sunday at 7:30 p.m. — actor Simon Kelly starring in The Naz. "Bebop drama," the word is, "inspired by (hip monologist) Lord Buckley." Two bebop bands promised. Whole thing funded by Santa Cruz Arts Commission — so no door charge. The music figures to be very good indeed — superb saxist Don McCaslin's listed as producer.

• Booked for the downtown Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club: Ruben Hour (4/1-2) Don Pendergrass Duo (4/4) — Max and Mona (4/5) — John Cortes Quartet (4/6).

• Hadda Brooks this week opened a two-month run in San Francisco. Fairmont Hotel's Cirque Room, to be more specific.

• Cafe Orleans (just above Cannery Row) holds get-down R&B jams. Every Sunday night.

• Trio jazz April 1-2 in the Hilton Lounge — drummer Andy Weis, Brian McConnell on bass, keyboardist Al Berman.

BAY LIGHTS

By Ray Mungo

How green the valley

GLORIOUS SPRING sunshine induced us to take to the open road, Carmel Valley Road that is, and drop in on The Ridge restaurant for lunch. The place has the reputation of serving great food in a spectacular rustic setting, and now we know why.

The drive from Highway 1 was enjoyable, lushly green, almost over too soon. We hung a right on Esquiline Road just after the Carmel Valley Village, crossed "Rosie's Bridge" and passed Rosie's Cracker Barrel, then headed uphill to the Robles del Rio Lodge, home of The Ridge. The main dining room looked over a sweeping panorama of meadows, horses, ancient trees. We thought we'd landed in the Garden of Eden, particularly when the waiter brought the cold 1985 Ventana Vineyards Chardonnay.

Dining companion Artie Early remarked upon the magical quality of that 1985 vintage both in California and in France. Meanwhile, we fell into the arms of a fresh and smooth cream of vegetable soup handmade by chef and co-owner Daniel Barduzzi, who with partner Roger Cabanel opened The Ridge in June of '86.

After that soup du jour, we ate every tender, succulent bite of the chicken breast stir-fry with ginger, bell pepper and tomatoes, except of course for the bites we discreetly exchanged with our companion for some of her divine scallops. These were delicately sauteed in shallot cream sauce and we hadn't tasted such quality since leaving the Alscace-Lorraine, which happens to be Daniel's birthplace.

THE GOOD news, aside from the delicious food, was the price. The chicken entree came in at $6.75, the scallops at $7.75 and folks, that's real value for authentic Continental cuisine in a high-tablecloth but casually relaxed environment. Of course the dinner menu's somewhat higher and more elaborate but the chicken entree is still only $9.75, Garrapata trout $12.50 and duckling "foie gras" $15.50 and you can pay a lot more for a lot less around this peninsula.

We can only imagine what the Easter buffet is like at The Ridge. It's a true Pacques a la Francais, a French Easter banquet, with help-yourself offerings of roast leg of lamb, fresh salmon, ham and prime rib plus three kinds of pates, many different cheeses, various salads, appetizers and pastries and a complimentary glass of champagne for $21 per adult, half price for kiddies. And reservations are recommended...

RESTAURANT FOR sale: As we were already "way out there" in the valley, we checked in on Shelly's Kitchen, the tiny and personable restaurant operated by Shelly Shachter for, lo, these past 13 years right in the heart of the Village, and were astounded to hear him announce that the place is for sale.

Not many restaurants have even lasted 13 years hereabouts, but Shelly was a true pioneer. You hear chefs say they cook everything from scratch, well this guy also grows the food in his home garden! The eggs are from his own hens, which also provide his chicken dishes; he raises ducks too and offers fresh vegetables and fruits in season from the 100 varieties he's got growing at home.

Even more amazing, Shelly has banned all smoking in his kitchen since 1976, many years before it became fashionable to crush that butt. "In the first five or six years, the no-smoking policy cost me more than half my potential business," Shelly said, "but we're proud of being the oldest non-smoking restaurant in California."

What will Shelly's Kitchen be without Shelly? We'll have to wait and see, meanwhile he's gone into the "edible landscaping" business designing landscapes of "pretty plants that produce food — vegetables, herbs, fruits and edible flowers." He'll do that full time once he sells the restaurant, which is listed by Sun Valley Realty in the modest $20,000 range...

...AND DID you know that the Oak Deli in the Valley, which makes as good a takeout sandwich as you'll find around here, also now does catering?...

...It was right there in the deli that Mike Clark pointed to the dog food section and said, "Alpo's only 79 cents a pound, but that's ten dollars in dog money"...

SPORTS DEPT. Heading off to Palm Springs to watch the Giants take on the Angels is an annual late-March ritual with Bay Lights, but don't worry, we'll be back. Hope to run into Meighan O'Brien of Pebble Beach, sister of Texas Rangers' first baseman Pete O'Brien, down there on the visit...

Speaking of the Texas Rangers, they feature not only O'Brien but another local boy, Pete Incaviglia, in the starting lineup and you should witness the scene behind the first base dugout when the Rangers come to the Oakland Coliseum and all the Monterey family and friends gather to root and hoot...

...Add Rangers; little toddler Jessica McClure, who was rescued from the bottom of a well, will throw out the first ball at their home opener. Informed of this, the child demanded to go back in the well...

AND HOW about that sizzling Carmel High School tennis team, which no other school seems able to beat? We hear that 16-year old Benno Weiner has a backhand serve reminiscent of a young Jimmy Connors...

BACK TO food and drink, there will be plenty of both at Bud Allen's Third Annual Hooker's Ball Saturday, April 2 from 6 to 11 p.m. at Carmel's Mission Ranch. The genial owner of It's Bud's Pub promises live music, a buffet, treats and "surprises" and the $35 ticket price benefits the Friends of the Carmel Unified School District (FOCUS). When this guy talks about "surprises," watch out. Anything can happen at the Hooker's Ball, leave the under-21 set at home please, and get your ducats at Nielsen's Market, the Pub, or at the door.

FINAL WORD in word processing is actually called Total Word and is finally released from Lifetree Software in Monterey, where the entire staff has earned a vacation to Tahiti. This new software has a huge thesaurus of synonyms — something Bay Lights could use when describing veal piccata.

Anne Germain said about Lifetree's software, "It's not only user-friendly, it's user-amorous!"

Be good, but remember "Anything goes!"

Massive egg hunt scheduled

The City of Monterey's 18th Annual Easter Egg Hunt will be held Saturday, April 2, at the El Estero Ball Park next to Dennis the Menace Park.

Area children, tots through third grade, are invited to take part in the festivities co-sponsored by the Sheraton of Monterey, Valu-Max and the City of Monterey Parks and Recreation Department.

The Sheraton Pastry Booth opens at 9:30 a.m. and the hunt begins promptly at 10 a.m. More than 7,000 eggs will be hidden.

An array of continental breakfast treats created by Sheraton Hotel Pastry Chefs, along with coffee and fruit juices, will be on sale beginning at 9:30 a.m. Families are encouraged to plan on having a light breakfast in the park.

In addition, an Easter Sunday Family Brunch pass at Ferrante's Restaurant will be awarded as a door prize. Registration for this will be on site. Take notice that only one entry per family is permissible.

Children are to bring their own containers to collect eggs.

Should it rain, the Easter Egg Hunt will be cancelled and the eggs will be distributed to the children at the site of the hunt.

LAKE-SIDE DINING IN AN ELEGANT GARDEN SETTING Presenting refined European cuisine from the freshest and choicest local ingredients. Fine dining in the warmth of country elegance.

At Quail Lodge just 3½ miles from Hwy. 1 on Carmel Valley Rd. • Cocktails from 5 pm — dinner every evening from 6:30 pm • Jackets and reservations requested. (408) 624-1581

MUSIC CORNER

New superlatives needed

TO THE PEOPLE who didn't attend the Andre Watts concert in Carmel I send my condolences. It was an evening that is now one of my treasured memories. To the people who DID hear Andre Watts play, would you like to know what those pixyish encores were? Well, I asked Mr. Watts and he told me what they were. The first one was "Andre's Gigue" by Peter Schickele, a.k.a. P.D.Q. Bach, and the second one was "Etude No. 2, Op. 46" by Edward MacDowell. Both were performed with breathtaking virtuosity.

In the kind of performance to make a reviewer look in vain for new superlatives to use, since the more usual ones just don't suffice, this latest concert in the Keyboard Artist Series featuring Andre Watts was a rare musical treat. At first glance, the program seemed rather modest and listener-friendly, being made up of works with a gemutlich Viennese aura. The composers all spent the major portions of their lives there and the actual selections, with only one exception, were hardly of the blockbuster variety. But appearances were definitely deceptive and it was a revelatory experience to encounter such superb musicianship and pianism.

Watts began with the Haydn "Sonata in C Major, No. 48" in two movements. It is not one of the more popular sonatas, but is an interesting and intriguing one. The first movement is a series of variations on a quiet theme. As they progressed, the pianist spun out sparkling ornaments and scale passages, keeping the unusually fragmented writing volatile and full of surprise. The more typical Rondo was jocular and happy. There were many statements and echos, all done with admirable sensitivity and control. Watts' pianissimos were things of beauty to the ear.

The performance of the familiar "Sonata in F Major, K. 332" by Mozart was in the same subtle and cultivated vein. Accurate in every sense, but almost more importantly, there was musicality, balanced restraint and a cleanly elegant interpretation. This artist concentrates on making music, emphasizing those values of taste and wit which permit him to achieve his purpose. He never seemed to lose sight of the lyricism that is the hallmark of this sonata and he brought it out beautifully.

GOING ON THE three Intermezzi and the Rhapsodie that make up Brahms' "Klavierstucke Op. 119," the artist displayed another side of his musical personality. While these pieces still demand great delicacy of touch, there is also force and dramatic truths to be expounded. The Intermezzo No. 1 began with a thread of tone (this ability to play pianissimo in a focused manner is a rare gift) and then began to build very gently in intensity becoming a miniature tone painting with exquisitely etched lines. In the second and third Intermezzi, the artist created a more positive tonal level with stronger colorings as he brought out the mood swings in the music.

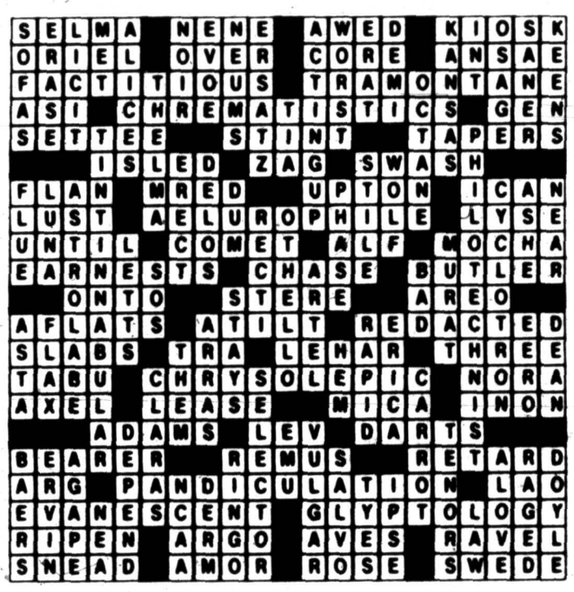
But, the "Rhapsodie" which was Brahms' last composition for solo piano was, for a work which only covers seven printed pages, a truly magnificent interpretation. It had drama, emotion, mystery, chameleon-like changes of mood and colors, and major technical demands, all of which were given in full measure by Watts.

After the intermission, two Schubert works were offered. The "Sonata in A Minor. Op. 143" is short for Schubert, but is gemlike and Watts made it his own. His mastery of the instrument is phenomenal. The dynamic ranges he creates are almost visual in their immediacy. His crescendos grow in a smooth aural line, accents are exactly proportioned and his pedalling, while quite individual, works exquisitely for his purposes. Thus the ebb and flow of the music was completely encompassed.

And then came that blockbuster. Schubert's "Wanderer Fantasie" is noted as being almost unplayable in its final pages, but there is a lot of "Sturm and Drang" before it gets there. Watts began full out with a well defined statement of the melodic material and then took off. This performance can only be characterized as the playing of a master. I kept marvelling at his ability to create an infinity of dynamic emotional shadings and also the inevitable sense of logic he brings to his playing.

The second movement was played in a manner akin to the Chopin "Funeral March." It had a true sense of tragedy which was excellently sustained. The dancing Scherzo which followed, lightened matters up considerably and then came the Fugue. Here Schubert pulled out every finger-testing device he could imagine and some of them are well nigh unmanageable by mortal pianists. Well, they were played to a fare-thee-well and with seeming ease by Mr. Watts, thereby making a triumphant conclusion to a memorable evening of music making. This time the Carmel audience was totally justified in the standing ovation they gave him.

Answer to last week's puzzle



Fair showcases local businesses

More than 80 local businesses will display their products and services to the Monterey Peninsula community at the Chamber's Business to Business Trade Fair, arriving Tuesday, April 5.

Products ranging from produce to phones to pastries, services from marketing to massage, and local businesses representing media, hotels and restaurants will be among the businesses on display during the evening event organized by the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce.

The fifth Business to Business Trade Fair will take place in the DeAnza Room of the Doubletree Hotel from 5 to 8 p.m. Visitors can walk from table to table to learn about the products and services of their local businesses and to get acquainted with fellow associates. Hors d'oeuvres and a no host bar will be available.

"The trade fair is part of an ongoing effort to promote doing business on the Peninsula," said Joan Pease, executive director of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce. "It's all a part of our 'Buy Peninsula First' campaign to encourage residents to shop here before looking elsewhere."

The Chamber-sponsored trade fairs are held twice a year, in the spring and in the fall.

Tickets to the event are $3 in advance and $5 at the door. Advance tickets are available by calling the chamber at 649-1770.

Saturday/2

First Day of Passover

Hike: The Sierra Club sponsors this steep climb to the top of Soberanes Ridge. After an easy walk up the creek canyon through redwoods, group will begin a steep ascent of about 2,000 feet to the top before dropping back down to the ocean side of the ridge. Wildflowers and clear views will hopefully enhance this moderately strenuous hike. Bring lunch, water and 50 cents carpool donation, and meet 9 a.m. at Brinton's at the mouth of Carmel Valley. Information: 624-3921.

City of Monterey's 18th annual Easter Egg Hunt: Children, from tots through third graders, are invited to participate in this egg hunt, co-sponsored by the Monterey Sheraton, Valu-Max and the parks and recreation department. Continental breakfasts go on sale 9:30 a.m. at the El Estero Ball Park next to Dennis the Menace Park in Monterey. The egg hunt begins at 10 a.m. Children must bring their own containers to collect eggs. In case of rain, the eggs will be distributed on site. Information: 646-3866.

Bike ride: The Sierra Club sponsors this ride through a redwood canyon, farmlands and apple orchards, stopping at a sausage factory in Corralitos in Santa Cruz County. Following quiet country roads with some hills for about 20 miles, group will picnic by the roadside, so bring lunch and water. MUSIC CORNER

By Jo Ann La Torra

Stanford quartet makes excellent impression

THE RELATIVELY NEW Stanford String Quartet made an excellent impression in its first concert, presented Friday, March 25 by the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula. According to the notes, it is only three years old, so it is a tribute to all the players to say they sound, collectively, much older.

Besides technical brilliance, they displayed stylistic mastery in a program that included Beethoven, Bartok and Mendelssohn. Each quartet was played with a careful attention to detail that allowed it to unfold with logic and control.

Their approach to Beethoven, Op. 18, No. 1, was lyrical, emphasizing the long melodic lines. The slow movement was particularly effective, and the silences were truly golden. From his sometime mentor, Joseph Haydn, Beethoven learned much about the rhythmic element of music, not least being how best to use music's equivalent to white space, silence. Haydn's use of silence was mostly in the service of his considerable wit; Beethoven tends to underline the inherent drama by means of it, and so he did here. The quartet timed them with excellent effect.

Bartok's magnificent Fourth Quartet followed. Some scholars find the six Bartok quartets the logical continuation of the direction Beethoven pointed out in his late quartets. The 19th century contributions to chamber music were more symphonic in outlook, as the aesthetic of the Romantic period was not best expressed in chamber music.

The Fourth Quartet of Bartok has attracted more attention than the other five put together. It has been extensively analyzed, at least once as a 12-tone composition. As this suggests, it is a fascinating work. In five movements, it is an arch form, with the slow movement serving as the centerpiece. The last movement contains references to the first, and the two movements end with the same unison motive. The second and fourth movements balance each other in tempo and mood.

The Stanford's sound is lighter and less agressive than one is accustomed to for Bartok, but nowhere is it etched in granite that Bartok should be endlessly robust. Indeed, Bartok's own playing of his piano music is rather elegant, so they were in pretty good company. The playing was virtually flawless. Everything, starting with the germ motives, was so clear that it doubtless removed much of the difficulty for those who might be hearing the work for the first time. The warmth of the cello in the slow movement, and the humor of the fourth movement, all pizzicato, were especially wonderful.

The program closed with the Mendelssohn Quartet, Op. 44, No. 1, and it was the perfect foil for Beethoven and Bartok. This is conflict-free music, requiring no special intellectual effort on the part of the listener. Just relax and enjoy it. Which is precisely what everyone seemed to do.

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to all persons bearing any interest in the matter, that the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, will conduct a Public Hearing.

SUBJECT: Consideration of Resolution No. 88-29 adopting amendments to the 1983-84 General Plan, and consideration of the California Environmental Quality Act status.

PURPOSE: Resolution No. 88-29 amends the Housing Element and the Architectural/Cultural/Historic Resources Element (previously the Significant Buildings Element)

ZONING
DISTRICT: Carmel-by-the-Sea

COMPLIANCE WITH THE CALIFORNIA ENVIRON-MENTAL QUALITY ACT (CEQA): The proposed amendments are covered by a previously certified Final Environmental Impact Report and Expanded Initial Study/EIR Addendum which comply with the requirements of CEQA. The Expanded Initial Study has been prepared to analyze the document and the relationship between the proposed amendments and previously prepared Environmental Impact REport in accordance with Section 21166 of CEQA. This analysis has resulted in a determination that no subsequent or supplemental EIR is required to address the proposed amendments. The City Council must concur with this determination by making a finding to this effect. Any person may review the Expanded Initial Study/EIR Supplement by contacting the office of Community Planning and Building at City Hall

DAY: Tuesday
DATE: April 5, 1988
TIME: 4:00 p.m.

PLACE: The City Council Meeting will be held at the Carmel Woman's Club located on the southwest corner of 9th Avenue and San Carlos Street.

Any court challenges made pursuant to decisions made by the City on this (these) proposed action (s) may be limited to issues raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the (Planning Commission, City Council), Forestry Commission, etc.) at, or prior to, the public hearing.

ALL INTERESTED PARTIES are invited to attend said HEARING and express opinions or submit evidence for or against the proposal as outlined above.

BY ORDER OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA.

Jeanne Brehmer, City Clerk

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received at the City Hall, for the STORAGE TANK REPLACEMENT, DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS FACILITY, JUNIPERO BETWEEN 4TH AND 5TH. CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA. CALIFORNIA. Sealed bids will be received at Carmel-by-the-Sea City Hall, East Side of Monte Verde Street, between Ocean & 7th Avenues, Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, on Thursday, April 21, 1988, at 3:00 p.m. and then at said location opened and publicly read aloud.

Each bid document shall be in accordance with the specifications and other contract documents prepared by Frank Lee. Consulting Engineer, P.O. Box 1581. Monterey, California 93942. Bids shall be submitted on the form to be obtained from the office of the Engineer.

The Information for Bidders, Bid Form, Agreement, and Specifications may be examined and/or obtained at the office of Frank Lee, Consulting Engineer, 7 Tweed Place, Del Rey Oaks, California 93940.

Copies of the Contract Documents are obtainable by General Contractors at the office of the Engineer. Reference copies are available for the use of subcontractors and material supplies at bona-fide Builders Exchanges.

Contract Documents are to be returned to the Engineer's office in good condition within seven (7) days after the bid opening date.

The City of Carmel-by-the-Sea reserves the right to waive any informalities and/or to reject any or all bids.

Each bid must be accompanied by cash, certified check of the bidder, or, a bid bond duly executed by the bidder as princial. From a surety company approved by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea: in the amount of ten percent (10%) of the base bid, made payable to the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea. This check or bid bond shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into a contract and furnish bonds as specified within ten (10) days after notice of award of the contract to the bidder, and will be retained as liquidated damages by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea if the succesful bidder fails to execute the agreement as herein stated.

The successful bidder shall be required to furnish a Payment Bond in an amount equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price, and a separate faithful Performance Bond in an amount equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price, said bonds shall be secured from a surety company satisfactory to the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Prior to commencement of work, the successful bidder must obtain a city business license, Proof of valid workmans' compensation insurance and general liability insurance in the amount of $1,000,000.00 (one-million dollars) shall be submitted to the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea. The certificate of insurance shall guarantee that the issuing company shall provide to the named certificate holder, 10 days written notice of cancellation of the public liability and property damage policy. Proof of all applicable insurance coverages as required by the State of California or by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea shall be on file with the City Clerk before work shall commence.

Attention of bidders is particularly called to the requirements of Labor Code 1773.2 and 1775. as to conditions of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to paid over this contract.

Contractors shall not pay less than the prevailing rate of wages for each craft as determined by the local wage agreements between employers and unions. Deductions from wages are allowed for (1) federal old age retirement benfits, (2) State of California unemployment compensation, (3) federal withholding tax, and/or as otherwise stipulated by public law.

No bids shall be withdrawn for a period of thirty (30) days subsequent to the opening of bids without the consent of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

BANANAS IN THE SKY

The real banana belt of Pebble Beach is the location for this delightful home that rises up above the flatlands and thus provides tremendous VIEWS of the sea. If you would like to see Pt. Lobos, Stillwater Cove, and look toward Spanish Bay from most windows of your new home or any of the multiple deck and balcony areas, you MUST see this home. When it is cold down yonder, it is 15 degrees warmer up here and the VIEWS are almost unsurpassed.

Three level living with the "Crow's Nest" with wet bar topside; master bedroom, living room, family room, dining room, glass-enclosed breakfast room, kitchen, and 1½ baths on the middle or entry level and the lower level with 3 more bedrooms, bath, triple garage, huge workshop, greenhouse and ground-level exit to the almost 1½ acres of property you will own. Two fireplaces, of course. And all for only $1,250,000 in an area of beautiful and large Pebble Beach homes.

VIEWS & CONVENIENCE

They are all yours when you own this 3000 ft.+ townhouse just an iron shot from the Lodge. You can see the ocean and Pt. Lobos from the master bedroom, enclosed lanai, living room, and den. You can enjoy two fireplaces. There are two very large bedrooms each with bath plus a ½ bath, kitchen, double garage, and lovely patio entrance.

Best of all, they are not located on the colder part of the Forest out near Spanish Bay but provide sheltered living in the established area around the Lodge. What more could you want at only $995,000?

OCEAN & VALLEY VIEWS MID-CARMEL VALLEY House & Guest House

Picture this perfect retirement home and an image of this 2-year-old home will fill it. The main house features just under 2400 sq. ft. of living space. The entry level has vaulted white ceiling accents with bleached redwood trim and large picture windows with plantation shutters for filtering the light. The floors are light random plank oak throughout and there are many built-in bookcases of harmonizing bleached redwood. A half flight of stairs up is the master suite with walk-in closet, study area & a deck. Downstairs is another bedroom & bath suite with its own study area & deck. The living room focuses on views & deck by day, and a large masonry fireplace at night. A formal dining room adjoins just off a kitchen, pantry & breakfast knook.

Separate from the main house is an architecturally similar guest house with living room, bedroom & bath or easily, 2 bedrooms & a bath. This bit of heaven for guests or relatives is separated from the main house by a large enclosed entry patio landscaped to perfection around native live oak.

One need only to relax for a moment there, listen to the wind chimes move only so slightly because it is virtually wind free. There is even external speakers for the stereo here.

The home of itself commands spectacular views of the mountains, valley & even some ocean. Designed by Ray Lloyd, built by Charles Murphy, landscaped by Richard Murray (yard) and Diane Stevenson (decks) and interior decor by J.A. Consultatns, this home represents a cost equal to its asking price of $565,000. This is truly a unique property & sure to sell quickly.

Oriental Magic in Carmel Hills

If you've never been to Whitman Circle, you have a little exploring to do. And it will be worth it. Whitman takes off of Flanders Drive, then circles around gracefully for a long block and ends at a small cul-de-sac that turns you back to Flanders.

That's where you'll find No. 3825, a neat dwelling amidsts the trees that is slightly below the roadway and hides behind a solid fence. It's one story, flat gravelled roof, with patios north and south, a long deck over a wooded canyon, and glass on all sides.

You cross a small patio from the driveway, past an oriental garden featuring dwarf trees and a decorative pool, to the front door. This slides back, revealing a 28 x 18 living room with glass walls on north and south. A broad fireplace dominates the south wall, grass cloth decorates the east and west walls, and the ceiling is flat planks with transverse beams.

This ceiling treatment is continuous throughout the house, and everywhere possible there is track lighting to create an intimate atmosphere.

The dining room, again with glass and grass cloth, is off the right corner of the living room. And level with it, reaching toward the front, is the 17 x 10 kitchen. Its floor is vinyl tile, as are the 2 large bathrooms; countertops are light gold formica, there's a Jenn-Air range and oven, dishwasher and abundant drawers and cabinets.

The sleeping quarters are to the left of the entrance. There's a central hall, and off it are 3 large bedrooms and 2 well-appointed baths. One bedroom may double as a den, with bookshelves across one wall, patterned grass cloth, and broad windows giving on the front patio. The other 2 bedrooms have lots of closet space, built-in chests of drawers, and each opens out to a small deck overlooking woods and canyon. Both baths have luminous ceilings and glassed-in tubs and showers. A washer and dryer are hidden in a closet off the hall.

This is a very private sanctuary, easy to maintain, close to everything in Carmel yet with the remoteness you want. One surprising bonus: as you look south past the oaks and pines, you see the soaring skyline of the Santa Lucia Mountains. The price is $295,000.

CARMEL LEGENDS

No. 60

Few places in the country adjusted to PROHIBITION as promptly and smoothly as Carmel. There were, of course, a few bona fide bootleggers who developed a thriving business. But other solutions (no pun intended) were more inventive. For example, boating became a very popular sport early in 1919, and it was common for pleasure craft to sail down along the Big Sur coast, stopping occasionally at small inlets which almost overnight sprouted little jetties where refreshments could be found. Also a strange new illness, called the Carmel Plague, developed in that year and quickly assumed epidemic proportions. It was characterized by sluggish blood and could only be treated by regular infusions of whiskey, which explained the veins and arteries and brought almost instant relief. Doctors wrote hundreds of prescriptions for this remarkable medicine, and certain drug stores grew wealthy filling these medical orders. But the disease was persistent and continued at a steady pace until the mid-1930's.
